India-Pakistan Conflict At Boiling Point

Forge, Union Tentatively Agree On Strike Settlement; Vote Sunday

Members of the Independent Union of National Forge Co. employes will meet at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Beaty Junior High School Auditorium to vote on terms of a tentative agreement reached by union and management members Friday.

The union went on strike Nov. 13.

Announcement of the tentative agreement was made jointly by union president Clifford L. Maze and industrial relations director Gary R. Shepherd.

The tentative agreement was reached early Friday morning in Franklin following a day and night-long negotiating session at which a federal mediator was present. The union has 840 members.

The tentative package, said Maze, is a three-year agreement valued at $1.1461, including benefits, for the three years. The original package offered by the company, Maze said, was valued at 92.67 cents, including benefits, over the same period.

The union president said the original company offer was a straight 515 per cent package and that the new contract is valued at 8.8 per cent for the first year. He said percentages in succeeding years are well within the 5.5 range set by the wage board.

Complete details of the new contract will be available Sunday after tabulation of votes, said Maze.

Strife On Western Border; Pakistanis Launch Air Raids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fighting erupted along the border of West Pakistan and Northwest India Friday in a dangerous new escalation of month-old hostilities that originated 1,000 miles away in East Pakistan.

Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told her nation Pakistan had "launched a full-scale war." A Pakistan army spokesman said: "We are at liberty to go across the border as deep as we can."

The spokesman claimed Indian ground forces had attacked along the 750-mile border at about noon. Pakistani jets blasted Indian airfields in raids that continued into Saturday.

The Indian government declared a state of emergency and Mrs. Gandhi said in a radio address: "We have no other option but to put our country on a war footing."

Pakistan's president, Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, issued a compulsory service order for all essential personnel and former members of the armed forces. As the fighting spread there were these developments:

—U.S. Ambassador Joseph S. Farland met with Yahya in Rawalpindi. A source said no information was available on whether Farland was carrying a message from President Nixon.

—In New York, members of the U.N. Security Council consulted on whether to hold a council meeting on the fighting but adjourned overnight without reaching a decision. Pakistan has asked for U.N. observers to be stationed in East Pakistan.

—French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann said in Paris that the major world powers must meet urgently and organize joint efforts to cool down the crisis.

—Informed sources in London said Britain urged both India and Pakistan to show restraint.

A broadening of fighting on the subcontinent posed a threat of direct involvement by the superpowers. The Soviet Union supports India and Red China backs Pakistan, while the United States has tried to steer a middle course.

Pakistan's chief U.N. delegate, Ambassador Mohamed Aly, told a news conference in Cairo that any request by his country for Chinese help in the fighting "depends on the war going on now and whether India will persist with its aggression."

The Indian airfields attacked by Pakistani jets included one at Srinagar, the capital of Indian Kashmir — a sore point between the two countries since 1947. They have fought two wars over the Kashmir area since their independence from Britain after World War II.

A Pakistani military spokesman said a total of seven Indian airfields were hit in the initial strike. He said two of them—at Agra and Ambala— were bases for Canberra bombers.

Ambala, 110 miles north of New Delhi, was the closest the Indians said the Pakistani planes came to the capital.

Fighting continued in East Pakistan. Associated Press correspondent Peter O'Loughlin reported from Bharshala that Pakistani troops led by two Soviet-made tanks were set back by heavy Indian artillery fire Friday. O'Loughlin said the Pakistanis were attempting to clear Indian infiltrators from villages more than six miles inside East Pakistan.

The current fighting stems from the conflict in East Pakistan between the army and rebels seeking autonomy or independence. India has demanded a politial settlement, claiming that the conflict has sent more than 9 million East Pakistanis into refuge in Indian territory.

Saturday morning, following the start of the air attacks in northwest India, an Indian Defense Ministry spokesman reported that two Pakistani planes had been downed. United News of India quoted a government source as saying the airstrike had failed because India had prior information on it.

Shapp-Huber Milk Board Hearing Restricts Press

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shapp, borrowing the state Supreme Court's chambers for the "open" hearing of Milk Marketing Board Chairman J. Lin Huber, decreed Friday the doors will be closed to cameras and tape recorders.

Some newsmen on the Hill raised a cry. The Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents Association then voted to appeal to the governor to rescind the ban.

The court, through its prothonotary, Patrick N. Bolsinger, said the Harrisburg courtroom was "merely loaned" to Shapp for the Dec. 15 hearing and "it is absolutely within the governor's jurisdiction" to effect such a ban.

Rules of the high court specifically prohibit cameras and tape recorders during judicial proceedings but say nothing about sessions such as the one over which Shapp will preside.

Huber is accused by Shapp of accepting $40,000 in surety from a New York state milk dealer, Clemo Milk Products Co., to satisfy a $200,000 security bond. Clemo went broke last September.

Huber is entitled to a hearing under the Milk Marketing Board law, the same law that empowers the governor, after a hearing, to "remove any board member for inefficiency, neglect of duty or misconduct against him..."

The 70-year-old Mercersburg dairy farmer declined to comment on the camera-tape ban. His attorney, John Carter, also declined comment, saying only, "We will fight the charges." Carter is a senior partner in the Philadelphia law firm of Pepper, Hamilton and Scheetz.

The governor's office, commenting on the ban, said it would permit the proceedings to be conducted quietly with any semblance of a "circus atmosphere."

Shapp's press secretary, Anthony May, said the ban would have applied to any location the governor chose. Shapp could have ordered the hearing held anywhere, even in his reception room.

Huber will have the right to judicial appeal if the governor dismisses him after the hearing. Shapp will preside over the hearing and act as prosecutor and jury as well.

A resolution forwarded to Shapp by the correspondents association said that since the "hearings will be administrative rather than judicial...the association respectfully requests the governor to rescind his ban on cameras and tape recorders at the aforementioned public hearing."

The resolution also said the ban would deprive "that portion of the public which relies upon the broadcast media for its news..."

Shortly after Shapp was informed of the resolution, May issued a brief release reiterating the governor's position.

Pay Board OKs Huge Wage Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's panel on construction pay Friday announced approval of six more contracts far exceeding the panel's guideline on wage raises.

The approved pacts, all negotiated before the wage freeze, contained pay raises ranging from 9.9 per cent over 12 months for Philadelphia bricklayers to 56.2 per cent over 24 months for Delaware plasterers.

The Pay Board's general guideline is that raises in post-freeze contracts may not exceed 5.5 per cent a year unless special circumstances warrant. Old contracts may have raises rolled back if found to be "unreasonably inconsistent" with that guideline.

The construction panel, officially named the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee, also inadvertently signaled Friday that it had intended to approve virtually all remaining retroactive raises. On Thursday the Pay Board relieved the CISC of authority to approve any more retroactive raises after it found that roughly 450 of a possible 500 such raises were granted two weeks ago.

The approved pacts, besides the Philadelphia bricklayers and Delaware plasterers, included a 21.7 per cent increase over 22 months for Fort Worth, Tex. sheet metal workers, a 20.4 per cent increase over 24 months for Northern California teamsters, a 39.6 per cent increase over 24 months for Philadelphia cement masons and a 24 per cent increase over 24 months for the highest classification in a contract affecting operating engineers in Terre Haute, Ind.

Cambodia Hot Spot In Indochina War

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting picked up in South Vietnam's drive in eastern Cambodia Friday but action lagged on other fronts in Indochina.

South Vietnamese paratroopers and armor operating 12 to 15 miles northeast of Chrum in eastern Cambodia reported killing 11 enemy troops and capturing seven weapons and 10 big rockets in three separate contacts.

In the Dam Be enemy base area, 25 miles inside Cambodia and 20 miles north of Highway 7, paratroopers killed five enemy while suffering two dead and 16 wounded, official military sources reported.

Cambodian forces in the Highway 6 area on the northeast front in Cambodia were regrouping in new defensive positions after losing the towns of Baray and Kompong Thmar, Associated Press correspondent Robin Mannock reported from Phnom Penh. He said fighting had died down on the front after three days of furious combat.

A Cambodian officer estimated 5,000 Cambodian soldiers had quit the front and returned to Phnom Penh but said fresh troops were moving up in trucks donated by the U.S. government.

Another officer at the headquarters town of Skoun, 35 miles north of Phnom Penh, said the rest of the original force of 20,000 troops in the northeast were digging in.

He reported the troops were consolidating positions between Tang Krasang, 70 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and the provincial capital of Kompong Thom, 10 miles farther north.

South Vietnam sent a squadron of 24 to 30 Huey transport helicopters plus six to eight gunships to support the Cambodian operations along Highway 6, military sources in Saigon said.

The helicopters are being provided on a temporary basis at the request of the Cambodian government.

Two U.S. Army UH1 Huey helicopters collided over the U Minh Forest, an old enemy stronghold 133 miles southwest of Saigon Thursday while supporting troops of the South Vietnamese 9th Division. Four crewmen were reported killed and four others injured

The search for an Army CH47 Chinook helicopter, which crashed north of Da Nang last Sunday with 33 U.S. troops aboard, was stymied Friday by rough terrain and bad weather. An American infantry company made it to within a half mile of the crash site Friday before establishing a defensive perimeter, the U.S. Command said.

Helicopters flying over the area were unable to land because of bad weather and mountainous terrain, but spotted 10 bodies near the burned-out helicopter.

MINOR INJURIES SUFFERED

Ward James Miller, 47, of RD 1, Russell, suffered minor neck injuries when his car ran off Fifth ave. ext. about two miles north of the Warren Borough line at 6:15 p.m. Friday and struck a tree. State police at the Warren substation investigated the incident. Miller was treated and released at Warren General Hospital. Damage was estimated at $600. (Photo by Lester)

Unemployment At 6 Per Cent Despite Work Force Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Friday said unemployment went back up to 6 per cent last month despite a rise in the total number of working Americans to an all-time high of 80 million.

The White House called the unemployment increase unwelcome, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson called it unacceptable, and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called it deeply discouraging, frustrating, and appalling.

The government also said its index of wholesale prices edged up a slight 0.1 per cent, but an administration spokesman pointed out that they actually declined over the three months of the price freeze. He said this may be the best evidence that will ever be available about the effects of the freeze.

The number of jobless Americans totaled 4.8 million in November, up by a seasonally adjusted 210,000, mostly young white adults who lost their jobs. When corrected for seasonal variations, the total jobless figure is 5.2 million.

The over-all labor force was swelled by a seasonally adjusted 390,000, mostly teenagers and adult women seeking Christmas-time employment.

Over-all, the ratio of job seekers to job holders jumped up to 6 per cent after declining to 5.8 per cent the previous month. The unemployment rate has hovered around 6 per cent for a year.

Labor Secretary Hodgson accused Congress of bogging down the President's requested tax cuts in a "web of congressional maneuver" over attempts to attach to it a plan to finance political campaigns from tax funds. Nixon requested the tax cuts nearly three months ago to stimulate the economy.

Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee and a vocal critic of the administration, said his staff's most optimistic view of present trends show the economy recovering so slowly that unemployment will remain around the 6 per cent level even a year from now.

The rate of unemployment increased for virtually every category except teenagers, which remained constant at 17.0 per cent, and for nonwhites, which declined markedly to 9.3 per cent from October's eight-year high of 10.7 per cent.

In other economic developments Friday:

—The Price Commission granted the MoPar division of the Chrysler Corp. a 3.7 per cent price increase on auto parts, down from the 4.4 per cent Chrysler requested.

—The Pay Board said its 5.5 per cent wage increase guideline applies to the aggregate amount of merit pay raises in companies where no labor agreement exists.

—The Construction Industry Stabilization Committee approved six labor contracts ranging from 9.9 per cent over 12 months for Philadelphia bricklayers to 56.2 per cent over 24 months for Delaware plasterers. All were negotiated before the wage-price freeze.

Senate To Vote Monday On High Court Nominees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate agreed Friday night to vote at 4 p.m. EST Monday on the Supreme Court nomination of Richmond, Va., attorney Lewis F. Powell Jr.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont. called up Powell's nomination ahead of President Nixon's nomination of Asst. Atty. Gen. William H. Rehnquist for a second vacancy on the Supreme Court.

This was the course favored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and other opponents of Rehnquist's nomination, but Mansfield said he believed it would expedite the debate.

Mansfield said that on the basis of his consultations with colleagues he did not expect "in any way, shape or form a filibuster" against either nomination.

Mansfield also said he and Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania "intend to stay with these nominations until they are decided one way or another."

Supporters of both nominations had been reluctant to confirm Powell without assurances that attempts would not be made to stall a vote on Rehnquist.

Powell, a former president of the American Bar Association, has not aroused any controversy in the Senate, but some liberal Democrats are fighting Rehnquist's nomination.

Scott told the Senate that he would have preferred to have Rehnquist's nomination brought up first. But GOP resistance to Mansfield's move would only have touched off "an unseemly squabble," he said.

"As the minority," he said, "our job is to cooperate."

Scott expressed hope that a vote could be reached on Rehnquist's nomination before the end of next week.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, meanwhile announced he will vote against confirming Rehnquist.

Disguised French Police Thwart Hijack Attempt

PARIS (AP) — Disguised as mechanics and Red Cross workers, police Friday night overcame a hijacker who bargained for the lives of 28 persons in a Pakistani jetliner against 20 tons of medicine he demanded for Pakistan refugees.

The hijacker, a 28-year-old French electronics technician identified as Jean Kay, fired a single shot as the police rushed him six hours after he took over the Pakistan International Airlines 720B at Orly Airport. The bomb with which he threatened to destroy the plane turned out to be a harmless box filled with electrical wires.

Kay was seized after more than a ton of the medicine he demanded had been loaded into the plane, parked on the brightly lit apron of Orly's main runway. It was virtually at the same hour that India was charging Pakistan with having launched a full-scale war over the Bengali issue.

The French Red Cross and the Order of the Knights Hospitaliers of Malta, who collected the medicines, announced that the whole 20 tons would be sent to the Bengali refugees "but by another route and other means."

Police described Kay's capture this way:

While four policemen wearing Red Cross armbands loaded medicine at the rear of the aircraft, two others dressed as mechanics entered the cockpit through a small trapdoor.

As the four at the rear pounced on Kay, he fired his 9mm pistol once, hitting a policeman's hand.

For Them, The War's Still On...

BIEN HOA, Vietnam (AP) — Here at this sprawling base 15 miles from Saigon the forgotten airmen of the U.S. 8th Special Operations Squadron are fighting a lonely and dangerous war across the border in Cambodia.

"We hate to hear things like 'What are you doing since the war is over?'" says Lt. Col. Gordon Weed, 45, Bountiful, Utah, the operations officer.

What the pilots are doing is scrambling from ready rooms and alert pads to support beleagered Cambodian forces struggling for survival. Their mission is a dangerous one, apparently never publicized because Washington wants to keep a low profile in Cambodia.

"The reason for our lack of notoriety is hard to explain," observes Capt. Robinson Van Sickle, 28, Borrego Springs, Calif. "I'd say the mission we are performing is extremely hazardous... The fact that we haven't lost many aircraft—we have had combat losses—is definitely misleading. I'd say the ground fire we encounter is very heavy."

Capt. Alvia W. Moore II, 25, Livingston, Calif., who was shot down 100 miles deep in Cambodia behind enemy lines Monday and rescued with minor burns, says the enemy fire "is always heavy in there...We've been lucky."

Van Sickle was asked if the 25-plane squadron had been busier than usual the past two weeks because of heavy North Vietnamese attacks on Cambodia's northeastern front.

"It's hard to believe, but our level of missions has been fairly constant for a longer period of time than just the last couple of weeks," he said.

"We've been flying a rather constant number of sorties for approximately six months. Our mission has been virtually the same for quite a long period of time.

"The results of our missions are highly successful. The battle damage assessment, without getting into specifics, is extremely high. I can't really be specific on this point but the results of our missions would speak for themselves if we could talk about it."

Capt. Moore says the Cambodians appreciate the help: "In this kind of war they've got to have it. They've got to have area target saturation. Our strike areas cover a large circumference."

MRS. GLADYS OMEDA ENRIGHT

Funeral arrangements have been completed for Mrs. Gladys Omeda Enright, 62, of 151 W. Main st. in Youngsville, who died on Wednesday, Dec. 1, 1971. She was born in Whig Hill, Forest County, on Oct. 26, 1909, the daughter of Peter S. and Lana Barnes Rudolph. She had been employed as a waitress and cook at the Times Square Restaurant and Marino's Restaurant in Warren before her retirement. She had been married to the late Cornelius John Enright, who died in 1960.

Surviving are three daughters: Miss Rosemarie Enright of Youngsville, Mrs. James Mary Jane) Petchold of Staten Island, N.Y. and Mrs. Carlo (Cathy) Castronovo of Boston; one son, James Arthur Enright, now serving in Vietnam with the U.S. Army; four grandchildren. She is also survived by one sister, Opal Discolo, of Staten Island, N.Y. She was preceded in death by three sisters.

Friends may call at the McKinney Funeral Home in Youngsville from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday. Funeral services will be held there at 11 a.m. Monday with the Rev. John Wheeler, of the Free Methodist Church in Warren, officiating. Burial will follow in Pine Grove Cemetery in Russell.

News In Brief

Dollar Value Drops

LONDON (AP) — The dollar fell to new lows on European exchanges Friday on the heels of a British decision to stop supporting it.

The Bank of England and other government banks in Europe had been buying dollars by the million to keep values from plummeting drastically. A rush to unload dollars began on Thursday as word spread that the United States might agree to a devaluation in terms of gold.

Raids Net Drugs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A series of pre-dawn raids by the state's new narcotics strike force here Friday netted thousands of dollars worth of illegal drugs and 28 persons were arrested, authorities said.

Some of those arrested were identified as "major narcotics wholesalers," while the others were said to be pushers. The 28 were charged with possession and trafficking in narcotics. Bond reportedly was set in proportion to the quantity of drugs confiscated in each case.

At a news conference hours after the raids, state police information officer James Cox said more such raids were anticipated.

Teachers Return

Teachers in the Jeannette School district ended a one-day strike Friday, but a walkout in the Peters Township District continued into its third day.

More than 5,000 pupils were kept out of classes Thursday by the two strikes.

Seeks Rate Rise

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Press Co. says it has asked the federal government for permission to increase circulation and advertising rates.

The Press said if the increase is approved, the cost of the daily paper would be hiked from 10 cents to 15 cents, but the 35-cent price for the Sunday edition would remain the same.

The company said the increases are necessary to offset rising payroll costs, resulting chiefly from a series of union contracts negotiated during 1971.

Injunction Continued

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge extended a Taft-Hartley injunction against a dock strike in the Port of New York for the full 80 days Friday, as shippers reported "substantial progress" on their main dispute with the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

Judge Dudley B. Bonsal, who had ordered the 18,000 New York-New Jersey strikers back to work last Friday under a 10-day temporary order, extended it for the full cooling-off period allowed by law.

The government said it was ready to seek similar action in courts with jurisdiction over all East and Gulf Coast ports. The strike, called by the 45,000-member ILA on Oct. 1, had affected every port from Maine to Texas for varying lengths of time.

Aid Bill Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders began preparing a foreign aid money bill Friday to make an end run if necessary next week around a congressional rule about authorizing the funds.

House voting on a $25-billion to $27-billion foreign aid appropriation is scheduled tentatively for next Tuesday or Wednesday, whether the money is authorized or not.

The conferees agreed Thursday night to authorize foreign aid at a $2.75 billion annual spending level, $700 million below the House' original $3.4 billion

Hunter Dies Of Heart Attack

CORRY—A 56-year-old Corry man died of an apparent heart attack while hunting Friday, said State Police at the substation here.

Dead is Steve Tinko of Russell rd., Corry, who left his home there at 2:30 p.m. Friday and failed to return by 5 p.m. His wife phoned state police who alerted a search party consisting of members of the Corry Civil Defense unit and several troopers. Tinko was found dead at 10 p.m. on the Corry Country Club golf course. There were no bullet wounds.

Youths Arrested By State Police

MT. JEWETT—State police at the substation here reported the arrest of three Hazel Hurst young men in connection with a burglary and a larceny that occurred about one month ago.

According to police, William Causer, 24, Robert Reinard, 21, and a brother Richard Reinard, 28, all of Hazel Hurst, were arrested and charged with the burglary of a Pennsylvania Game Commission shed in Hamlin Twp., McKean County, during which a quantity of gasoline and oil was stolen and also for the theft of gasoline from a PennDOT vehicle.

The three young men were arraigned before district magistrate William Bunce of Kane and committed to McKean County Jail in lieu of $500 bail.

Two Are Arrested On Drug Charges

FALCONER, N.Y. — Two Pennsylvania youths were arrested by a New York State Police trooper, P. Roughhead, and charged with possession of dangerous drugs in the fourth degree and possession of implements to administer narcotic drugs.

Arrested were David W. Hitchcock, 21, of RD 2, Irish rd., Edinboro, Pa., and Carl C. Wykoff, 20, of 216 Center st., Cambridge Springs, Pa. They were arraigned before Town Justice Gordon M. Oste of the Town of Ellery, N.Y., and committed to Chautauqua County Jail in lieu of $2,600 total bail.

Company Closed

The Sugar Grove Farm Supply Co. will be closed Monday, Dec. 6, 1971 due to the death of Walter S. Storms.

Boy Drowns In Pond

ERIE—A five-year-old Harborcreek Township boy drowned in an area pond Thursday afternoon after he fell through thin ice.

A young companion is in serious condition at Hamot Medical Center.

Dead is Brian Curtis Baxter, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Baxter of 5136 Station rd.

Being treated at Hamot intensive care unit is Mark John Winslow III 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Winslow, 5136 Station rd.

The fatal drowning occurred about 2 p.m. in a pond at the rear of 5086 Station rd., owned by Benjamin H. Winslow Sr. of the same address.

According to state police at Lawrence Park barracks, the two youngsters were walking across the pond when the thin ice broke and they fell into about four feet of water.

Other children who were present ran to the house to get Benjamin Winslow. Police said he went to the pond, pulled out Mark and managed to revive him.

Police said the body of the young Baxter boy was apparently out of sight beneath the remaining ice on the pond and Winslow did not know the boy was there.

An ambulance was called and the Winslow boy was taken to Hamot.

About 15 minutes later, police said, the Baxter boy's mother, Mrs. Jean Winslow, appeared at the Winslow home and said her son was missing.

Police said Mrs. Winslow and Benjamin Winslow, then broke the remaining ice and found the body of the youngster.

Attempts to revive the boy failed. He was rushed to Hamot by a Wesleyville ambulance and pronounced dead on arrival.

Erie Mother Pleads Guilty In Baby's Death

ERIE—An 18-year-old Erie mother has pleaded guilty in Erie County Court to involuntary manslaughter in the beating death of her 20-month-old daughter.

Mrs. Valerie Hunt of 747 E. 12th entered her plea Thursday before Judge Edward Carney, who ordered a pre-sentence investigation and scheduled sentencing for Jan. 5.

Involuntary manslaughter carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison.

Mrs. Hunt was originally charged with murder after her daughter, Melissa Ann, died Sept. 27 at Hamot Medical Center of shock due to internal hemorrhaging. Police said the youngster had been "badly beaten."

A preliminary hearing for the defendant was delayed while she underwent psychiatric examination. Following talks between the District Attorney and defense attorney James Jenks, it was agreed to recharge Mrs. Hunt with the lesser offense.

She pleaded guilty to manslaughter before District Justice James Hogan earlier this week.

Accident Leads To Arrest For Warren Driver

Norma D. Chamberlain, 38, formerly of Walworth, N.Y., and currently of 409 Rankin st., was arrested around 5:05 Friday morning for driving under the influence....shortly after she drove a borrowed vehicle into a parked car on Pennsylvania ave. east, causing $1,250 damage.

According to Larry Kopko, investigating officer for the Warren Borough police Mrs. Chamberlain was driving a car owned by Connie Linstrom of 408 Laurel st. west on Pennsylvania ave. east when she rammed into a parked car owned by David and Vicky Atkins of 503 Jackson Run rd. near the Hertzel st. intersection.

Her vehicle struck the parked car at approximately 45 mph, Kopko said. The impact was so great the Atkins vehicle was pushed a distance of twelve feet and Mrs. Chamberlain's car traveled 75 feet after the impact, over the northeast curb and wound up facing north on Hertzel st.

Mrs. Chamberlain was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Raymond F. Gilmore and released on bail around 8 a.m. Friday. Damage to her car was estimated at $450. Damage to the parked vehicle totaled $800.

No Injuries

State Police at the Warren substation reported an auto accident at 5 p.m. Friday on LR 61036 in Glade Twp. They said a car operated by G. E. Schimmelfeng, 76, of 859 Jackson st., ext., Warren, was traveling north when it ran off the side of the road and struck the guy wires of a telephone pole. No injuries were reported.

"We had just left the boarding area when the hijacker went into the cockpit and ordered the pilot to cut his engines. He threatened him with his gun. The Pakistani passengers seemed terrified because he said he was going to let everybody except them off in Beirut before heading for India.

"The crew kept calm throughout. The pirate recruited an interpreter among the passengers because the pilot spoke English. He was courteous and friendly and he let the passengers eat and move about pretty much as they wanted to."

Warning that any move toward the aircraft would mean its destruction, he demanded that the 20 tons of medicine be loaded.

Prescription For Cough Medicines

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The state Pharmacy Board has decided to require prescriptions for cough medicines containing narcotics.

Until the board's action Friday the state's druggists were only required to keep track of the sale of medicines containing such things as codeine, dilaudid or other narcotics.

Sol Turnoff, chairman of the board said. "We decided to take this action because of the lack of action by state health officials in the past." Turnoff said the ruling was unanimous.

The action was reportedly prompted by widespread abuse of coedeine cough syrups.

Larceny, Burglary Shoplifting Draw Police Attention

Warren Borough Police officers are investigating a Thursday larceny, an attempted burglary that occurred Friday morning and a shoplifting incident that was reported Thursday evening.

The larceny occurred between 6:45 and 7:15 p.m. near an auto repair shop on Harmon st. The complainant, William Wilcox, said he parked his truck outside the repair shop. When he came back the 12-volt battery was missing from the vehicle.

The battery is valued at $27.

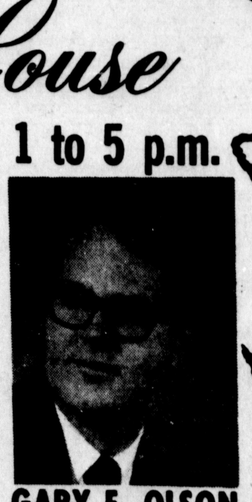

At 3:16 a.m. Friday Lowell E. McCann of 307 Madison ave. was baking in the kitchen of Mostert's Bakery on Pennsylvania ave. east when he foiled an attempted burglar's plans.

He told police that he turned around and saw a man sneaking through the doorway with a hammer in his hand. When the burglar saw McCann he reportedly dropped his hammer and fled. He is described as an individual of medium height, light hair and wearing a brown coat.

Around 6:20 p.m. Thursday Charles Mahood, proprietor of the Warren Drug Store, told police that $22.50 worth of eye makeup kits were stolen from his store.

Mahood said he last remembered seeing the kits on November 26, but didn't discover until last night that they were missing. He said a half dozen kits were taken.

Stock Price Margin Lowered

(c) N. Y. Times-News Service

WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve Board Friday reduced the margin requirement on stock purchases from 65 to 55 per cent, effective Monday.

The reduction will bring the margin requirement to its lowest level since November, 1963, when it was 50 per cent.

The margin requirement is, in effect, the minimum down payment that must be made on purchases of stock. It applies to all stocks listed on exchanges and to a specific list of stocks of more than 400 companies that are traded over-the-counter.

In announcing the reduction in the margin requirement, the federal reserve pointed to the recent decline in the amount of stock credit that is outstanding.

This is the factor, rather than stock prices, that the Federal Reserve is supposed to consider in setting margin requirements. Stock prices have been rising just recently, after a decline.

That total volume of outstanding loans made by brokers to their customers was about $5 billion at the end of October, compared with the peak of $6.5 billion reached in June, 1968. Loans made by banks, the other major source of securities credit, do not fluctuate as much as broker's loans, and have totalled around $2.5 billion for much of the past year.

Although the Federal Reserve cut the margin requirement on new purchases of stock, it did not change what is known as the "retention requirement" in margined accounts that investors keep with their brokers.

This will remain at 70 per cent, as it has since November, 1963, despite several changes, both up and down, in the basic margin requirement.

The retention requirement applies to a margin account where the stockholders' equity is less than the current margin for new purchases of stock. In such a case he must pay into the account a percentage of whatever he realizes from the sale of any stock from the account—the percentage that is fixed by the retention requirement.

The Federal Reserve made no change in the margin requirement on bonds that are convertible into stocks, which remains at 50 per cent.

The required margin on short sales—that is, sales of borrowed stock that must be repaid later—was also reduced from 65 to 55 per cent.

Changes in margin requirements have had no consistent effects on stock prices in the past.

Robbery In Erie

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—A lone gunman accosted 60-year-old Cliff Brady Thursday while he was working in a service station and ordered him to "Give it to me."

Brady did. He belted the gunman in the mouth, knocking him to the ground. When the assailant got up, Brady knocked him down again. Crawling to his feet again, the gunman fled.

Police said all that was lost was a little skin from Brady's knuckles.

ACCIDENT INJURES ONE

A 54-year-old Warren man, Gerald Atwell, of 780 Yankee Bush rd., Warren, suffered a lip laceration and possible fractured leg in a two-vehicle accident at 11:25 a.m. Thursday on Follett Run rd. Atwell was taken to Warren General Hospital by North Warren Ambulance. State Police Trooper Daniel Portzer of the Warren substation said a car operated by Roger Leroy Pring, 18, of 2 W. Fifth ave., Warren, crossed over into the westbound lane while traveling east and was struck by a truck driven by Atwell. Total damage was listed at $1,200. (Photo by Mansfield)

American, Soviet Scientists Agree On Plans For Joint Space Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — American and Soviet scientists will sign within two months an agreement for a joint mission by spacemen from both countries, the U.S. Embassy's science attache reported Friday.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington said that the report was the result of a misunderstanding and that any agreement emerging from current discussions in Moscow would have to be approved subsequently by both governments.

Jack Tech, the embassy science attache, reported that scientists from both countries released the following statement at the close of this third conference of American and Russian space experts:

"The main purpose of this third working session was to discuss the technical details of space hardware compatibility and to discuss a joint American-Soviet space mission. It is intended to sign a final agreement within two months. Details will not be given out until then."

Asked to elaborate, Tech told reporters the agreement apparently would provide for separate launchings of manned Soviet and American spacecraft, which would link up in space.

"The fact they were discussing the technical compatibility of the hardware—the actual parts of the two spacecraft that would have to fit, would mean a linkup," he explained.

Told of Tech's statement, a NASA spokesman denied that the U.S. Soviet discussions had ended in Moscow and said it would take two months merely to evaluate results of the talks once they have concluded.

"After the talks have ended, they will be subject to recommendations and approval," John Donnelly, the NASA spokesman, said. Any understanding as to a test mission would come later, he added.

The NASA statement said it would not speculate on how any misunderstanding occurred. Officials said there had been no consultation with NASA representatives in Moscow during the day.

NASA said, "The purpose of the present working group session is to continue discussion of technical details of hardware compatibility and of a possible Soviet-American test mission.

"Any working group recommendations will be subject to consideration and approval by NASA and the Soviet Academy.

"Any understanding to fly a test mission would come later and would be subject to an additional separate agreement."

Meanwhile, officials at Cape Kennedy not involved in the negotiations said Friday they expect a joint flight to take place late in 1974 or early 1975 if all the technological problems are worked out.

The long interval is accounted for by Skylab flight plans, which will keep American spacemen busy in 1973 and early 1974, and by the long lead time needed to develop hardware for a joint flight.

This first flight probably will be limited to testing the common docking apparatus and a brief exchange of crewmen. A second flight is envisioned a year later with cosmonauts and astronauts spending several weeks in orbit together, conducting scientific experiments and surveying earth's resources.

Incident At Forge Prompts Arrest

Sheriff D.E. Allen Jr. on Wednesday arrested two men and charged them with malicious mischief.

Released after posting $250 bail each were Norman N. Bowser, 48, of 320 Weiler rd., Warren and Dorian K. Horn, 31, RD 1, Pittsfield.

The charge stemmed from an incident Nov. 23 in the area of National Forge Co. in Irvine, when the pair allegedly cut the air hose of a tractor-trailer owned by Fitzgerald Trucking Co.

The incident occurred during the strike at the area plant after an injunction was granted Monday, Nov. 22, which prohibited mass picketing and stopped strikers from preventing trucks from leaving the plant.

Damage to the Fitzgerald rig was listed at $500.

Nixon's New Budget Plans Said Based On Deficit

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) —The Florida White House said Friday President Nixon is basing his new budget on a full employment concept—a decision officials feel is virtually certain to result in a government spending plan tinged with red ink.

The disclosure by presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler that "the administration is again this year committed to a full employment balance" came shortly after the Labor Department reported that unemployment climbed to 6 per cent in November.

Under the full employment concept, forecasts of how much revenue the government will have to spend are based on the theory that unemployment will not exceed 4 per cent. If unemployment exceeds that level, a budget deficit results.

This fiscal year the deficit stands at $27 billion, with $20 billion of that traced to the fact that unemployment has topped 4 per cent and resulted in a lower tax take than forecast. Unless the current unemployment rate is cut sharply, officials concede the fiscal 1973 budget will carry a deficit.

Ziegler said the November rise in unemployment "is unwelcome." But he pointed out that the number of Americans with jobs rose to a record high of 80 million during the month and added:

"With such a substantial increase in the work force I think we could make the statement, without any hesitation, that the economy is moving forward in such a way that it is producing additional jobs and additional employment."

Nixon flew to Florida Thursday night and on Friday met for four hours with his top budget advisers—Director George Shultz of the Office of Management and Budget, Deputy Director Caspar Weinberger and White House aide John Ehrlichman.

"These are key sessions where the President will be making major decisions on fiscal 1973 budget issues," Ziegler said.

The budget for the bookkeeping year beginning July 1, 1972, will be sent to Capitol Hill in January, and Ziegler said the budget drafting process is hampered somewhat because Congress has yet to approve about 30 per cent of the spending plan for the fiscal year which began last July.

Meanwhile, there were continuing idications Nixon would accept the tax-cut bill, containing a modified check off plan for financing presidential elections, which he had threatened earlier to veto.

Child Council Meets

The Council for Exceptional Children will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Warren State Hospital. Dick Brown from C.E.O. will be the guest speaker.

HE'S BEEN THERE

This Prison Reform Advocate Knows Whereof He Speaks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eldred Hoover is an ex-convict who hasn't lost his liking for stripes. He wears suits designed like prison garb and his car is zebra striped. It's all part of his crusade for reform in prisons.

"This could be you," says another emblazoned across the front of the striped prison suit he sometimes wears.

"I know what prison is like. I was in eight years myself," said the energetic Northside resident. "Believe me, it's terrible and getting worse."

A fourth-grade dropout, Hoover figures he spent eight years in various prisons, including stints for auto theft and carrying a concealed weapon, as well as a four-year involuntary manslaughter term which ended in 1966.

"I got drunk and hit a guy with my car," said Hoover, adding that he has since sworn off alcohol.

"While I was in Western State Penitentiary, I decided I was going to do something worthwhile when I got out. I decided I was going to help the guys stuck inside."

Presently, Hoover writes to 10 inmates of Pennsylvania prisons, most of them serving life terms.

"I was writing to a guy I knew and he asked me to write to his buddy too, and pretty soon I was writing to a bunch of them," he explained.

"I have one guy who is serving 108 years and he once wrote me and said my letters were all he had to live for."

Living off Social Security and a military pension, Hoover devotes full time to speaking before church and civic groups, attending conferences and stirring up support for prison reform legislation.

"I'll speak anytime, any place, even out of state." He said during a recent prison reform discussion at the University of Pittsburgh. "Just call me and I'll be there."

Alleged prison evils cited by Hoover include lack of vocational training, too little time off for good behavior and censorship of prison mail.

"I write this guy up at Huntingdon State prison and I told him I'd mail him a picture of my car, which I did," Hoover said, "but a while later he wrote me and told me he had never received the picture."

So Hoover hopped in his car, and drove up to the prison to, as he put it, "raise some hell."

Contest Of Wits

Communism, according to Dr. Trond Gilberg of Penn State University, has dropped the cloak-and-dagger approach to winning friends and influencing friends among the nations of western Europe. And, says the assistant professor of political science, the increasingly sophisticated foreign policy thinking in the Kremlin presents a serious challenge to Western diplomats.

Writing in the October issue of "Current History" magazine on "Soviet Policies in Western Europe," Gilberg emphasizes the complex and concerted effort of the Soviet Union, especially since the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968, to win over the nations of Western Europe.

The new line of diplomacy is designed to overcome and reduce the American influence among those nations friendly to us by pointing out that while America's interests are primarily "Atlantic" in nature, the Soviet Union faces prospects and problems common to all European nations. In addition, Gilberg says, real efforts are being made to discourage participation by our friends in Europe in such organized efforts as NATO and the Common Market.

The current slant, as Gilberg sees it, is to offer political neutrality as a viable alternative to such organizations, and the formation of a so-called all-European security conference. Its aim is to ensure Soviet maintenance of dominance in Eastern Europe while seeking to extend Kremlin influence to Western Europe. The chief selling point is an implied understanding between the United States and the Soviets through the easing of the Cold War.

A major tactic of the maneuver, Gilberg claims, is the practice of giving favorable public reactions to the policies of some countries such as France and Finland, while giving the cold shoulder to others such as Great Britian and Greece. In this way, he says, it is hoped to split the regional powers and economic organizations of West Europe, thus strengthening Soviet influence throughout the area.

"The leaders of the Kremlin have certainly come a long ways," Gilberg says "from the days of the two-camp theory, with its stale idealogized views of a world dominated by big capital and peace-loving socialists."

They certainly have if the professor's analysis is acceptable. Which would mean that time has come when we can no longer be content to consider the Communist threat as a boogieman in the closet sort of thing, but recognize it for what it has turned out to be— a contest of wits. This does present Western diplomats with a challenge of considerable proportions.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—Once again, the Federal Power Commission has been caught promoting higher profits for the gas millionaires instead of lower bills for the housewives.

Last June, we told how Chairman John Nassikas had connived, in a Louisiana gas rate case, to jack up gas rates by an estimated $4 billion.

Now, Nassikas is shaking the money tree again for the gas millionaires. His latest sell-out was so blatant that federal antitrust officials charged in a stinging secret memo that the FPC had tried to "discredit and ridicule" their efforts to protect the housewives' pocketbook.

The beneficiary of Nassikas's efforts is none other than El Paso Natural Gas Company. Even now, its lobbyists are scurrying around Capitol Hill drumming up support for a bill to give El Paso a monopoly the courts have refused to approve.

At stake is a multi-billion-dollar share of the western gas market. El Paso has been ordered three times by the Supreme Court to relinquish its western stranglehold, so homeowners can benefit from more competition on the price they pay for cooking and heating.

Attorney General John Mitchell, like his predecessors for 14 years, has fought doggedly for the housewives. He sent attorney John Dougherty to a recent Denver hearing to do battle with El Paso. Dougherty sought help from the FPC which, instead, sided with the great gas combine.

FPC DOUBLE-CROSS

Nassikas was represented in Denver by his general counsel, Gordon Gooch, who quietly encouraged a star witness, Weldon Thomas, to testify in favor of El Paso. This came as a jolt to Dougherty who had expected his fellow government attorney to cooperate with him.

In a blistering secret report, Dougherty's boss, Joseph Saunders reported to anti-trust chief Richard McLaren: "Mr. Dougherty confided in me a belief we had been 'had.' "

The FPC staff had shown a willingness to cooperate, but Gooch "permitted Mr. Dougherty contact only with him and no further direct contact with the FPC staff," reported Saunders.

The witness Thomas, under Gooch's prodding, "pictured the idea (of breaking up the El Paso monopoly) as an engineering nightmare, hopelessly expensive, which would involve heavy costs to...the consumer," continued Saunders' secret memo. "It is clear from the transcript that Mr. Gooch set out to 'blitz' the (anti-El Paso forces). ...Indeed, several other attorneys...asked Mr. Dougherty whether Mr. Gooch was selling him out."

Thomas conceded, however, that he had done the investigating for his testimony in an El Paso plane with two El Paso experts to guide him. And Gooch admitted that "we accepted at face value all industry-furnished supply data."

District Court Judge Hatfield Chilson ruled against the consumers on this aspect of the case, although a ruling on more crucial matters is still awaited. Meanwhile, FPC tried to collect from the Justice Department for Thomas's expenses to testify against the consumers.

Footnote: Gordon Gooch, tough as a diamond drill, talked at length with my associate Les Whitten about the case. Said Gooch about the anti-trust officials: "They're entitled to their opinion, and the hell with them! We had a duty to tell it as we saw it. By God, I'm proud of the case we put in."

HAIR IMBROLGIO

The latest developments in the military's Great Hair Imbrolgio make it clear that the brass hats are more interested in what's on top of a man's head than what's in it.

We have already reported how the Army's close-cropped commander, Gen. William Westmoreland, took time out from his more pressing duties to dictate stern hair standards for GIs. We also told of the soldier at Ft. Meade, Md., who is awaiting court martial for a hairy nape.

Now we learn that teams of officers and noncoms at various posts around the country have been charged with the solemn mission of spying on and nabbing GIs who have been avoiding their barbers.

At Fort Bliss, Tex., for example, military officials have established "courtesy patrols" which are dedicated, according to the official decree, to improving "standards of appearance of all military personnel."

Wearing stormtrooper-style armbands marked "CP," the courtesy patrols roam about the post, stop automobiles, demand ID cards, note "uniform violations" and make "on-the-spot corrections."

An army spokesman claimed the courtesy patrols are "management tools" intended to check on "people who are taking care of unofficial business during duty time." He confirmed, however, that the patrols are also on the lookout for lengthy locks.

Even the weekend warriors of the Army Reserve are suffering the consequences of the Big Hair Scare. On October 8, Reserve Chief J. Milnor Roberts dispatched a memo ordering his commanders to trim some heads.

Quoting Gen. Westmoreland's original edict, Gen. Roberts instructed his subordinates that the published guidelines "represent the outer limits of neatness and grooming required the day BEFORE a haircut—not the day after."

ON THE RIGHT . . .

The Oil Lobby And Vietnam

By William F. Buckley Jr.

There is an anti-Nixon movie going the rounds designed primarily as quick satisfaction for horny liberals, wherein the director does everything to indict the lifework of Richard M. Nixon, including the revelation that Alger Hiss was innocent after all.

Towards the end of the film, on the general subject of Vietnam, the producer shows on screen the "credits" for the Vietnam War. They are a long list of the commercial "beneficiaries"—U.S. Plywood, Aluminum Corporation of America, etc. etc., the idea being (if you missed it) that our venture in Vietnam was done for the benefit of capitalist organizations, a version of history which satisfies the lollipop set, and which brings to mind a wonderful story published in the summer issue of an obscure journal of the Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation.

On March 10, 1971, Representative W.R. Anderson of Tennessee, formerly the captain of the submarine that made the historic run under the North Pole, rose solemnly on the floor of the House of Representatives to demand an investigation of the role that American oil interests were playing in Vietnam.

What startled the Congressman was the report that the reason we were in Vietnam is that geologists are aware that just off the South Vietnamese shelf there is a vast reservoir of oil which, when tapped, will permit us to lift 400 million barrels of oil per day.

Now four hundred million barrels is a lot of oil, enough to finance robust little wars, and Mr. Anderson demanded that the treachery be exposed, and the appropriate malefactors brought to justice. Meanwhile, the oil report activated a group of energetic ladies who call themselves "Another Mother For Peace," and went into action. The ladies reportedly brought the Vietnam-Southeast Asian oil story to the attention of some 240,000 women through a newsletter, and this in turn triggered a response of ten thousand letters to our poor, beleaguered Congress.

Obviously, it was time to look into the charge. This was done by a Senate Committee headed by Senator Phil Hart, and also by various oil organizations.

1. Four hundred million barrels per day is not only a lot of oil to pull out of the South Vietnamese continental shelf. It would be approximately ten times as much oil as is being produced everywhere else in the entire world, combined.

2. No American oil company owns a single concession to drill in the area.

3. Geologists haven't the remotest idea whether there is oil lying off the shelf of South Vietnam, and won't know until there is considerable drilling there, which is not now scheduled by anyone.

4. The nearest offshore drilling now going on is off Malaysia and Indonesia, some 500 miles from the Vietnam coastline. There are 20 rigs there. By contrast, there are 115 rigs currently active in the Gulf of Mexico, 23 in the Persian Gulf, 21 in the North Sea, 33 off Western Africa, and 36 off South America.

5. If the Administration is the slave of the oil lobby, it is necessary to account for the Administration's a) reduction of the depletion allowance, b) drive to lower the price of crude oil, c) blocking of the North Slope pipeline in Alaska, d) failure to place Federal lands in offshore Gulf of Mexico up for sale.

How did the rumor originate? Well, sir, Marshal Zhukov gave a speech which made the charge, and that speech was reported in Pravda. The UPI and the AP reported the Pravda charge.

There is great confusion on the question of who actually came up with the figure 400,000,000. There are those who say it was Zhukov. There are those who say Pravda misquoted Zhukov. There are those who say UPI misread Pravda. A reporter for the UPI insists that he sent out the figure "Four Million" on the wire, which somehow arrived as Four Hundred Million when it got to New York. Either way, everyone seems to agree that the editors' Gestalt should have kicked up on coming across the figure—even as, say, you would figure there was a misplaced decimal point if you read that West Germany had produced Nine Hundred Million tons of steel last year.

At any rate, like the charge that the United States constabulary had "murdered" 26 Black Panthers—very soon it was all accepted as history. And now, another Mother for Peace has bitten the dust.

Morals And Politics

BY ANTHONY LEWIS

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

LONDON—One of the odd advantages of that constitutional anachronism, the British House of Lords, is that its members, representing no one but themselves, can escape partisan simplicities and speak their minds. And so, the other day, Lord Goodman treated his noble colleagues to a rear examination of the limits on morality in politics.

"My Lords," he said "for many weary months I have been laboring in extremely distasteful negotiations—distasteful...not because they were hostile, not because they were unfriendly, but because they involved such a difference of approach of principle and of social morality between the two sides..."

The negotiations he meant were those with the white minority government in Rhodesia and its prime minister, Ian Smith. Five times this year Lord Goodman, acting as a private English lawyer with no party or official commitments, went down to Salisbury to talk with Smith. The result was the agreement just signed by Smith and the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Conspiracy theorists on the left of British politics have been trying to find some sinister reason for Lord Goodman's efforts in Rhodesia. They suggest that he is a secret admirer of South Africa or some such thing. The truth is more interesting.

Lord Goodman detests racism. He regards the Africans of Rhodesia as particularly nice people, and he thinks that politics there as elsewhere should be subject to the rule of the majority. The Rhodesian government's practice of holding African leaders in detention for years without trial because of their political aspirations seem to him "horrible."

Now why should a warm-hearted, liberal-minded chap carry on negotiations that he finds so distasteful? How could he agree to a settlement that leaves political power with the white five per cent of Rhodesia's population for years to come?

Lord Goodman's speech to his peers dealt essentially with these questions. The argument he made has a point, a cautionary point, even for those who would never lose any sleep over Rhodesia.

Assume that Britain's sole remaining concern in Rhodesia should be for the Africans. The question then is whether she can help them more by signing an agreement that gives them some economic, political and social improvements or by refusing to settle with Smith at all. For just about everyone agrees that Smith holds all effective power, that no political force inside or outside Rhodesia threatens him in the foreseeable future and that he would not accept more liberal terms.

Given those realities, Lord Goodman believed the terms agreed were the best available to Britain. He had no illusion that he had "persuaded Mr. Smith to a more liberal way of thought." But Smith, whatever he thought, had made concrete concessions to the outside world's view of minimum decencies in race relations.

For Britain to reject the settlement, Lord Goodman therefore concluded, would be to make a moral gesture of no use to the Africans of Rhodesia. Its only purpose, in fact, would be to make the British feel more holy. It would be "self-indulgence."

Any valid politics has to have a moral content in the long run. To have no objective but power is to assure corrupting cynicism or brutality. It is right that people in Britain should feel a moral concern over Rhodesia.

But it is also true that rigid moral certainties, excluding accommodation with the facts of life, can have disastrous political effects. The recent history of Rhodesia provides much sad evidence of this truth.

Beginning in the 1950's, successive British governments tried to find a workable compromise between the ideal of multiracialism and the long-established fact of white power, virtually independent power, in Rhodesia. There were conferences, federations, constitutions one after the other.

Each successive formula was rejected as insufficiently liberal by African nationalists and sympathetic Britons—and was succeeded by a constitution even less liberal. It all had a terrible inevitability. The angrier the nationalists were, the more they boycotted politics and talked of guerrilla war, the more frightened and repressive the Rhodesian whites became.

Many have not learned the lesson of that history even now. For example, some have insisted that Britain should reject the settlement terms because Smith might not stick to them and they provide no external—British — enforcement mechanism. But the whole lesson of the last futile years is that Britain has no power to enforce her will in Rhodesia. To make such a promise would be self-indulgent moralizing indeed, and a deception to the Africans.

At Suez 15 years ago the British learned that their military influence in all those pink-colored areas of the map had withered. They would be wise this year to recognize, in Rhodesia, that it would be equally mistaken to try to exercise moral dominion without power.

JIM BISHOP: REPORTER

Still A Winner

He found two seats in the paddock and he and the young woman watched the jocks get a leg up and parade on the sleek shiny animals who run for a living. Eddie Arcaro had a quick eye for the young faces in fancy silks and a slower one for the warm steady sun which buttered Tropical Park Race Track. The palm trees lifted their fronds and let them fall helplessly.

It was good to be alive. A year ago he had open surgery at Miami Heart Institute and no chalk player would bet him. He won the big one and the touts moved out of their path to nod and say: "Hi, Eddie." The face has some leather in it and the nose is half of it, but it's a breathing nose and that's all of it.

He wasn't going to bet. Arcaro was at the track to meet Joyce Cramer, blonde press agent for the new "Racing Form." It is published by a computer in Hightstown, N.J. The old one was a tabloid, but the computer has so much to say about each horse that the paper is full size.

The horses had gone out the chute onto the track and Arcaro studied the information the computer dreamed up. The machine remembers every bid of information about each horse, but it isn't allowed to pick a winner. The one thing it can't decipher is the mood of each horse at getaway time. So it confines itself to telling everything the nag did in the past year.

STILL AHEAD

Arcaro is probably the only horse bettor who is certain, at age 55, that he is ahead of the horses. "Sometimes," he said to Miss Cramer in that deep, easy-to-read tone, "I bet only once a month. When I bet, I don't take chances; it's an investment."

He may be afflicted with a selective memory. More people finish out of the money than horses. Arcaro's niche in history is that he ranks with Earl Sande, Johnny Longden and Willie Shoemaker as one of the great riders. His last four races were in Australia in 1962, when the stewards picked horses for him from a hat. He lost all four and quit.

He grew up in Kentucky, an 85-pound golf caddie. One of his patrons counted the kid's bones and said: "You're never going to make a baseball team, a football team, and you won't be a golfer. You're a jockey."

Newport wasn't horse country; Eddie Arcaro's father, the owner of the Walnut Hills Taxi Company, was opposed to four-footed hacks. However, once Eddie got inside a barn at age 13, he knew he would become a good rider or nothing.

His own form chart shows that he has ridden in 25,000 races and won over 4,700 of them. Mr. Arcaro's winners earned an aggregate of 31 million dollars. He established great records but, in time, Willie the Shoe broke almost all of them. Except one, which Arcaro hugs to his bosom.

He won the Triple Crown twice—the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont Stakes—on Whirlaway and Citation. Unless two super horses come up in separate years with the same jockey, that record will stay on the books under Arcaro, E.

FEWER MISTAKES

And yet, his approach to winning has always been negativistic. "The idea is to make fewer mistakes than the others." He also believes, along with William Hartack, that the difference between a mediocre jock and a good one is one length in six furlongs.

He sat back and soaked up the sun. "According to the computer," he said softly, "the nine horse ought to win this one." "The Bull," Miss Cramer said. They looked up at the board. Bamboo was the crowd's favorite. They listened to the roar at the getaway and the high-pitched screams of women watching the stretch run.

The numbers went up quickly. The Bull lost it in the stretch to a 15-to-1 shot named Dirty Wirejack. Bamboo was two and a half lengths back. "As long as the computer doesn't pick 'em," Arcaro said, "we're all safe."

He got up between races and walked toward the gate. Joyce Cramer said goodbye. "It's a good racing sheet," he said. "So long." She watched the shadow of his strong stride, like blue scissors snipping the concrete walk...

A Coach Calls A President

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — In spite of all he has to do, President Nixon still takes time out of his busy day to telephone football coaches and offer them encouragement and advice.

While the President does this on the spur of the moment, it has never occurred to any football coach to telephone Mr. Nixon and offer him words of inspiration and solace.

I imagine if a coach did, the call would go something like this.

"Hello, Mr. President, this is Coach Harold Elkins of the John V. Lindsay High School football team. I just wanted to call you and tell you to keep your chin up and don't get discouraged because you've lost a few lately."

"Thank you, Coach."

"The most important thing to remember is that when you're on the five-yard line and you're fumbling, the other guy still has to recover the ball."

"I never thought of that Coach."

"Mr. President, my team has lost 39 out of its last 40 games, but I learned one thing. Never give up. You have to say to yourself, 'I may be losing the battle for inflation or the economy; or the fight with labor or with Congress,' or whatever you're losijg at the moment, 'but I'm going to stick in there and give as good as I get, because I'm a pro'."

"Those are inspiring words, Coach."

"Now, I want to tell you something Mr. President, that you probably don't know about me. I always wanted to go into politics. But I wasn't light enough to make the team. I played some sandlot politics, and in my freshman year in college, I ran for a couple of offices, and so what I tell you now comes not from the heart, but from experience.

"The game of politics is just like the game of football. You win some and you lose some, and you usually lose more than you win. But what counts is not when you're winning and the crowd is cheering, but when you're losing and you're still willing to play. You have that spirit, Mr. President. You've lost a few, but you've never given up and I admire that in a politician.

"Mr. President, I'm going to go out on a limb and predict that you're going to be in the playoffs in 1972. If Connally can pull off Phase II, and Agnew doesn't get hurt and the stock market goes up and you can block George Meany and if you can score some points against George Wallace, I believe you're going to be very tough to beat."

"Coach, I have to ring off now..."

"I want to make one thing perfectly clear, Mr. President. You're going to goof between now and '72—everyone goofs in politics , as in football, but the man who wins is the one who says, 'I've goofed, but I'm still in the ball game.' "

Convention Hitch

By Richard Haratine

VOTE SWAPPING— Gov. Shapp's desire to run as a favorite son in next April's primary may put some Democratic delegates in his hip pocket, and give him organizing power. But Pennsylvania backers alone can't earn him a token nomination at the convention. Under the Dems new rules, a floor nominee can't qualify with fewer than 50 official delegates. But here's the hitch: The delegates have to come from three states with no more than 20 from one state counting among the first 50. For favorite sons to earn a nomination, there would have to be some ingenious swapping of non-committed delegates.

MIDNIGHT JUSTICE—"A defendant's right to a speedy trial is found only in the Constitution. It cannot be found in the criminal courtrooms of our big cities," says Philadelphia DA Arlen Spector, commenting on shortage of courtroom space and suggesting putting judges on day and night shifts.

MILK MAN'S MANEUVER—When Lin Huber appears at Gov. Shapp's inquest on his competence, the Milk Board chairman's first maneuver will be to demand that the Governor disqualify himself as the judge in the case. Under the law, Huber must be tried publicly by the chief of state. But the Franklin County dairy farmer will contend that Shapp has prejudged the case, in press comments and on the after dinner speaking circuit.

FLIP JUSTICE— That coin toss for No. 6 spot (out of seven) was won by Supreme Court Justice-elect Robert Nix Jr. Low man on the Supreme Court will be his Democratic running mate, Justice-elect Louis Manderino. But both will have to win another 10-year term to earn more seniority than Justices O'Brien (1983) and Roberts (1984) who were elected to 20-year terms under the old constitution....NOTE(Gov. Shapp now has two major appointments in his portfolio. One to fill the unexpired Manderino term on Commonwealth Court, the other to replace over-70 Superior Court Judge Henry Montgomery. Six months past compulsory retirement, Judge Montgomery continues to serve under a fiat by Chief Justice Bell.

Judge Wolfe Halts Extradition Order

Judge Robert L. Wolfe refused to sign waivers of extradition for two men who told the court they wanted to confer with counsel.

Wanted in New York State to face charges of robbery in the second degree are Bradley Collin, 18, of North Warren and Jeffrey Hohman, 34, 14 Orchard st., Warren.

Both are being held in Warren County Jail following their arrests by state police of the Warren substation in connection with the burglary at 12:15 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 30 of the Lakewood Motel at 191 E. Fairmount ave.

Falconer-based state police reported that the night clerk at the motel, Lorenzo Cooper, of 12½ Oak st., Warren, was allegedly struck and knocked down by Collin and $50 taken from the cash register. Cooper told police his assailant escaped by car.

Collin was arrested the day after the incident and Hohman was apprehended at 9:30 a.m. Friday by Troopers Myron Fenstrom and Harry W. Jabo.

When asked Friday by Judge Wolfe if they wanted counsel, both answered in the affirmative and were advised that counsel would be appointed by the court. Collin and Hohman were returned to Warren County Jail until such time as proceedings can be reopened.

Russell Man Found Guilty In Non-Jury Sodomy Trial

A 20-year-old Russell area man, charged with sodomy, was found guilty following a non-jury trial which convened at 1:30 p.m. Friday before Judge Robert L. Wolfe.

Although two boys, ages 8 and 12 were allegedly victims, Daniel McIntosh, of RD1, Russell was found guilty of performing the act of sodomy with only one.

The defendant was arrested July 26, 1971 by State Police Trooper Myron Fernstrom, following his investigation of a complaint filed by the boys' father.

Fernstrom testified that the two boys were riding their bicycles at 6:30 p.m. on King rd. in Elk Township when they met the defendant. McIntosh, Fernstrom stated, took the pair into a group of pine trees where the sodomy act was allegedly performed.

Assistant District Attorney John Eberly represented the Commonwealth and Joseph Massa was defense attorney.

The boys were present in the courtroom with their parents, but upon request by Eberly, were not required to testify.

County Can Add $25 For Funeral Of Servicemen

Times-Mirror & Observer
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Warren County commissioners now are authorized to contribute an additional $25 toward the funeral expense of a deceased service person which shall be in addition to the $75 already mandated by law, under terms of a bill cleared by the Legislature and now signed by the Governor.

Application for such reimbursement must be made within one year after the death of the service person (unless death occurs while in the service in which event there is no one-year limit).

Similar provision is made in the case of widows of deceased servicemen (providing they have not remarried and are legal residents of the county), in that the additional $25 may be authorized by the county commissioners in addition to the $75 the county already is required to contribute toward the widow's funeral expense.

Under terms of another piece of legislation, this one passed by the Senate and now in committee in the House of Representatives, Warren County probation and parole officers would be subject to the same pay, medical and hospital expense benefits as those presently accorded enforcement officers and investigators of the State Board of Parole.

Orbiting Solar Observatory Discovers Polar Caps On Sun

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sun has north and south polar caps just as do the earth and other planets, information gathered by the OSO-7 Orbiting Solar Observatory disclosed Friday.

OSO-7 measurements show for the first time that the temperature of the corona, the sun's upper atmosphere, is cooler by millions of degrees at the poles than over other regions of the sun. But the corona's temperature at the poles still is a million degrees.

Unlike the frozen polar caps of earth and Mars that photograph a brilliant white, the sun's poles show up, in the electronic measurements made into multicolor pictures, as black areas.

"This is completely new and unique, that we have established that the polar regions actually are cooler than the remainder of the corona," Dr. Werner Neupert of the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., said in an interview.

"Just this past summer, at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, we reviewed the state of knowledge of the sun, and talked of that body as having one average temperature."

The cooling at the solar poles is only in relative terms. OSO-7 readings clearly showed polar corona temperatures of about 2.7 million degrees, Neupert said.

He added that the normal temperature of the sun's corona, except for the polar areas and a few hot spots around active regions, is about 3.6 million degrees.

The 1,400-pound OSO-7, orbiting 150 to 200 miles above the earth, has its two major instruments pointed constantly at the sun. Project leaders hope to obtain data from the spacecraft for at least a year, to shed additional light on the solar changes that take place gradually and slowly.

Physician Opens Office For Anesthesia Services

Anesthesia Associates of Warren and Northwestern Pennsylvania announce the opening of its main offices located at 309 Market st., Warren.

The president of the corporation, Dr. F.H. Butt, who was formerly employed at Warren General Hospital as a practicing physician in anesthesia, advises that, in addition to providing those services associated with the administration of various types of anesthetics, the company will furnish outpatient treatments for Inhalation Therapy.

There is presently available at the Market st. offices, oxygen gauges for patients having home use of oxygen and as of January 3, 1972 the Anesthesia Associates will have the necessary equipment and facilities to perform Pulmonary Function Testing.

Billings for all services will be made directly by the company. Mary Jane Danielson, A.A.I.T. will serve as secretary and technician in charge of the Warren operation.

ELECTED TO HOLSTEIN BOARD

Ransom "Buzz" Riedel Jr., of Spring Creek, seated, left, was elected to the executive board of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association at the state annual convention held on Nov. 18 and 19 in Altoona. He currently has one of the top producing herds in Warren County and the highest classified herd in the county. Others seated left to right, are: Mary Kuzma, County Dairy Princess, of Columbus; and Ken Loomis of Sugar Grove. Standing, left to right, are: Hollis Morton, Bear Lake, secretary-treasurer; Darrell Johnson, Akeley, president; Alfred Akins, Chandlers Valley and Burdette Weiler, Warren.

CAUTIOUS OPTIMISM

Wharton Economist's Analysis Predicts Healthy U.S. Economy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A leading business forecast predicts healthy progress in the U.S. economy for the next two years, but the forecasters said President Nixon deserved "higher marks for his steps in August" than for "the effectiveness of the decisions coming out of the Wage and Price Boards."

Dr. George R. Green of the Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates at the University of Pennsylvania also said the new policies were "a recognition that the inflation problem was a serious one" that called for controls if unemployment was to be kept from growing worse.

Dr. Lawrence R. Klein said Nixon "exaggerated in predicting that 1971 will be a good year and 1972 will be a very good year."

In a more conservative view, the Wharton forecaster told newsmen at a press conference: "I wouldn't say we're bullish in a strong sense but we're not worried about the future."

Klein and his associates—Drs. George R. Green and F. Gerald Adams—predicted that the Gross National Product will increase by approximately $100 billion in the year ahead, from $1,051.7 billion to $1,149.6 billion.

In their regular quarterly analysis, the Wharton economists also said the coming year should bring a "real growth" (in 1958 dollars) of six per cent while the rate of inflation will be held under four per cent.

Specifically, they anticipate "that the housing market will show continued strength and will remain near its recent high levels. With the re-establishment of investment tax credit and liberalized depreciation guidelines, we see a pick-up in business fixed investment.

"Inventory accumulation, which has been held back by the need to use up inventories of steel accumulated in expectation of a steel strike, will lend substantial force to economic expansion next year.

"With good economic growth in 1972, we project some further declines in interest rates, and a modest recovery in our balance of payments."

The three men qualified those predictions by saying "These developments result in a strong profit expansion during 1972 with the actual magnitude depending very much on the upcoming decisions of the Pay Board and the Price Commission."

The Wharton forecasters said they think the Pay Board and Price Commission may have enough success in 1972 to keep the increase in prices to about four per cent and the overall growth in wages to about six per cent, one-half per cent above the present wage guidelines.

Klein, Green and Adams said their predictions don't include a pick-up in consumer spending. That fact, they explained, is reflected in the "consistently high" rate of personal savings projected in their evaluation.

In the field of unemployment, the Wharton forecasters say that "full employment could be reached by 1973." The government uses the term "full employment if (indicate a jobless rate of 45 per cent.

Soaring Market Looking Healthy

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices soared Friday as rally gains piled up for the sixth consecutive session in moderately active trading.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 10.80 to 859.59. In the past six sessions the Dow industrial average has advanced 61 points.

"The monetary crisis rally took on the tone of a fullfledged recovery by staying strong for the sixth consecutive day," said Robert Stovall, an analyst at Reynolds Securities Inc.

Stovall said this was especially significant just before a weekend in which key decisions might be made about trade and the dollar.

He also said there was a general feeling among investors that the market has seen its low for the year unless there is a complete breakdown in the ongoing international negotiations.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks rose .62 to 53.51.

Big Board volume was 16.76 million shares compared with 17.78 million shares Thursday.

There were 1,039 advances and 419 declines out of 1,704 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 51 new yearly highs and 10 new lows.

The Associated Press 60 stock average gains 3.0 up 309.4, with industrials up 4.9, rails up 2.0, and utilities up .6.

There were 113 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more tradedeFriday, compared with 136 Thursday. The biggest was 144,900 shares of Kraftco at 42⅞ up ¾.

Chemicals, electronics, and mail order-retails were mixed. Aircrafts were lower. All other stock categories were higher.

Volume leader on the Big Board was Phelps Dodge, unchanged at 30⅞.

American Stock Exchange prices also scored gains. The Amex price-change index rose .18 to 24.60. Volume was 4.16 million shares compared with 4.79 million shares Thursday. There were 616 advances and 279 delines out of 1,172 issues traded.

Warren-Redbank Match A Draw

By TOM SCHULTZ

"It was a good match—for the fans," is how Dragon Coach Lee Chew summarized the Warren-Redbank wrestling match Friday evening at Warren High School which ended in a 22-22 stand-off.

Dragons Dave Lopez and Chris Sirianni brought the highly vocal and enthusiastic crowd to its feet in the final two matches as Warren rallied from a 22-12 deficit with Lopez getting a first period pin and Sirianni blanking his opponent 11-0 for four points.

Warren jumped to a 3-0 lead as Greg Williams decisioned Redbank's Doug McAninch in the 95 lb. class, 7-3. The advantage was increased to 9-0 as Rick Johnson won the 103 division on a forfeit.

Redbank then got its first three points of the evening as 112 lb. John Kundick decisioned Warren's Rodger Smock 5-0. Larry Ross then returned the favor as he decisioned Rex Magagnotti in the 120 lb. class by the same score and the advantage was upped to 12-3.

In the 127 lb. match, Ben Campbell of Redbank completed dominated the action, winning over Mark Owens 15-1 and picking up four points for the visitors. Campbell collected two points in the first period, added six in the second and seven more in the final two minutes.

Under a new rule in high school wrestling this year, if a man wins his match by ten or more points, he is awarded four points, as was the case in the Owens-Campbell match, and not just the customary three points awarded for a decision.

Redbank moved even closer in the next match, 12-10, as John Wells decisioned the Dragons' Wayne Babcock in the 133 lb. class, 9-5. Warren finally surrendered the lead in the following match, which pitted a pair of 138-pounders, Ike Borland for Warren and Dave Kline, with Borland losing a tough 6-2 decision.

The visitors continued to pile up the points, three at a time, as Rod Hoffman won a decision over Mark Maines in the 145 division, 11-3. Maines avoided a four point decision with a two-point take-down late in the final period.

The Dragons Dan Knupp and Val Silvis of Redbank hooked up in an exciting 154 lb. match, with Silvis coming out on top 5-2, as Knupp was awarded single points on two occasions for escapes. Redbank led at this point, with three matches remaining, 19-12.

The 165 lb. match was the closest of the evening, being decided by which wrestler—Warren's Lyle DeVore or Redbank's Steve Allison—had accumulated the most riding time. The match, which had ended in a 6-6 deadlock, was awarded to Allison, 7-6, and Redbank was on top by ten points, 22-12.

Lopez then came charging onto the mat for Warren knowing he needed a pin to get the Dragons back into the match. With the crowd around him yelling for the pin, Lopez put Randy Bain's shoulder blades to the mat with just 16 seconds remaining in the first period for six points and Warren trailed by just four, 22-18.

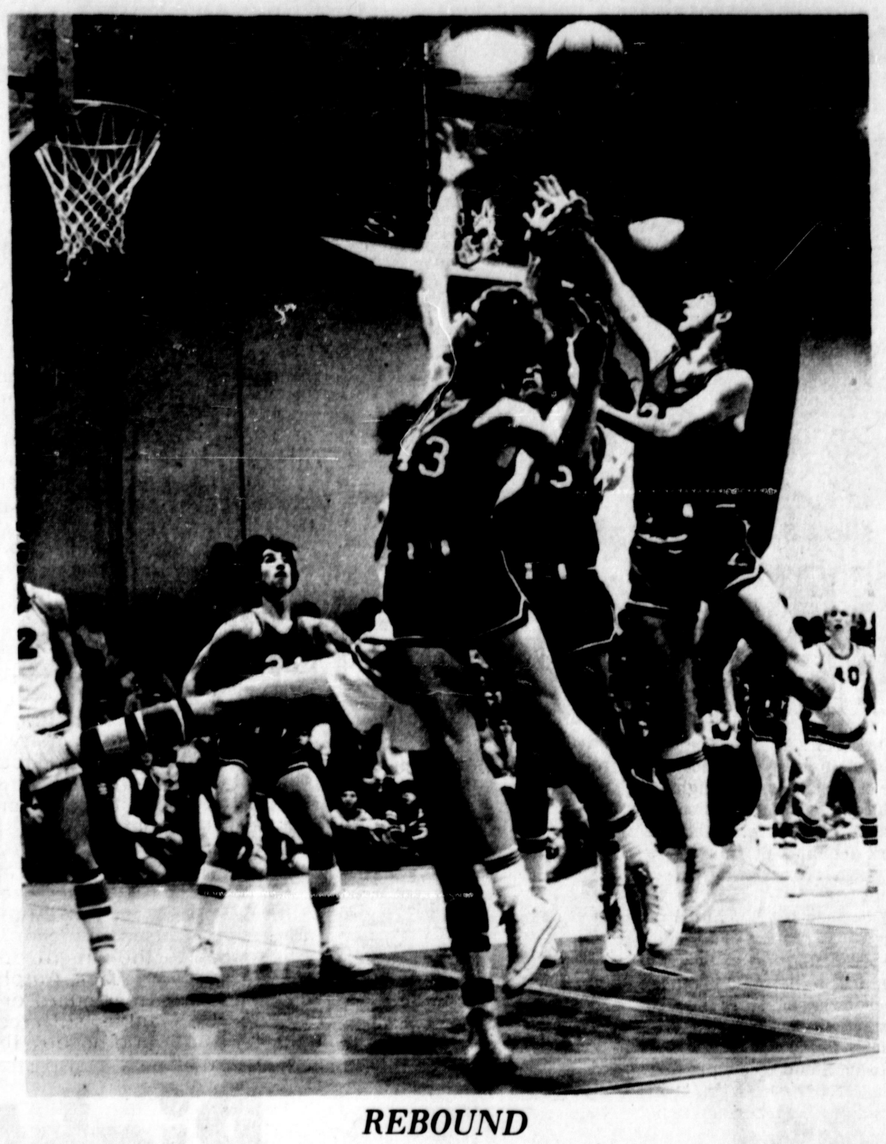

That left the outcome of the Dragons' opening match on the shoulders of the heavyweight Sirianni. Try as he might, and he did numerous times, the Dragon grappler could get only one of Keith Lorenz's shoulders on the mat and had to settle for a 11-0 decision and four points for the tie match. In each of the first two periods, the clock ran out as Sirianni had his opponent in dangerous situations, close to the pin he wanted.

In the Junior Varsity match, the Dragons were defeated 31-28 as they were pinned in the last three matches to blow a 28-13 lead.

The Dragons' next match is Saturday, Dec. 11 at home against Ridgway.

Warren Rocks Eagles In Cage Debut, 55-42

By DAVID PIRILLO

Under the direction of Ed McGlumphy, the curtain rose on the Warren High School Dragons last night before a standing-room-only crowd in the gymnasium of Youngsville High School.

The production — the annual Warren-Youngsville tiff — featured the normal run-of-the mill errors for an opening night, but the climax overshadowed a so-so plot.

With the two warring parties locked in the heat of battle, 38-38, halfway through the final period, Youngsville succumbed and the autopsy at game's end revealed it had suffered from lack of goals — one in the final eight minutes.

The end result was a 55-42 burial, which was clearly not indicative of the evening.

Starring in the leading role was Mike Piehuta, netting 21 points for the Dragons, ten of those in the crucial last period. Others in Warren's cast were Jim Bowen with 11 points and Dan Zdarko and Bill Post with eight each.

Youngsville's lack of offensive rebounding scathed the Eagles. In that particular category, they were outdone, 23 to 4.

Neither team was productive from the floor. The hosts missed 37 of 51 attempts for 29 per cent; Warren, not much better, missed 45 of 67 for approximately 33 per cent. Turnovers were comparative, Warren yielded the ball 14 times, which isn't all that bad for an opening night, and Youngsville forfeited it 15 times. One satisfactory statistic for the Eagle coaching staff was the foul line shooting. Making 14 of 17 from the charity line, the hosts reached 82 per cent.

Surfacely, the game looked to be Warren's from the start. The Dragons whipped into a man-to-man defense on the already once-beaten Eagles. It worked. For the first two minutes, Youngsville fumbled around, Warren introduced itself to the basket, taking a 5-0 lead on Bowen's offensive rebound and lay-up, followed by a foul point after the play. Young hit on a long two-pointer, and Warren fans sat back waiting for an onslaught that never came.

Driving Mike Shine, who incidentally was the Eagle high scorer with 14, and Bob Jones, who pushed in a couple of fouls, put Youngsville back in the game in the last two minutes of the period, down by one-8-7. Warren took its turn on the foul line in the final minute, hooping three, and got a little extra on Zdarko's corner set shot, pushing into a four-point lead, 13-9.

Youngsville, if you'll excuse the chance to make a pun, shined in the opening minutes of the second when Shine drove on his man for the 11th point, sank the 12th and 13th from the foul line and laid another in from underneath, bringing the hometown favorites to within one point — 17-16 — with 3:58 in the half. From the key, By Baker popped in a jump shot, the go-ahead points.

Leaning heavily on Dan Zdarko, Warren's pivot man, the Dragons requested and got a delivery of points. Two on a rebound, two more on a lay-up on a tip and another pair on a one-and-one from the foul line. He soon was in foul trouble, going to the bench. Youngsville, meanwhile, was shining again when Mike drove through the middle for a basket and was fouled in the process. He made the free shot and Jones drove the base line with an untying basket moments before the half, allowing the scrappy Eagles a two-point margin of safety as they streamed to the locker room.

Warren came out of the half-time conference with McGlumphy and went to work. The scoring went like this: Bowen scored on a tip to tie the game. Post hit from the outside and Piehuta drove through the Eagles' 2-3 zone for the 32nd point and the lead. Post then tickled the twine from the side, and Warren enjoyed its widest lead since the first period.

Working the ball into 6-5 Lyszaz, the Eagles were in the game again. He sank a couple from inside with a free shot to boot, and the game was tied again for the umpteenth time. From out on the wings, Gibson added a long shot, and Youngsville had the same two-point lead it did at the buzzer signifying the half.

A mystifying spell befell the Eagles in the fourth period, or it was Warren's switch from a man-to-man during the third period that was finally taking effect.

The Eagles waited for three solid minutes before anyone hit the cords. When Pat Gibson did with 4:51 remaining, it was to pull out from a one-point Dragon edge.

Then it happened, as Coach Bob Kolesar, of the Eagles, said, "We lost it when the score was 44-38." And that was shortly after Gibson's bucket. Piehuta hit from the top of the key and on a drive through the middle. Bowen and Ron Borgeson alternated with Piehuta in scoring a two-pointer apiece.

Down by six, Youngsville came out of its zone and into a man-to-man. Too late. Piehuta scored another pair on a give-and-go from Young and the game was out of Youngsville's hand.

Said McGlumphy, "We made the usual mistakes for a young team, but we have some boys that have never played a minute on the varsity before." Later he added, "Some of our boys were reluctant to shoot, but they came around. The main thing is we kept our poise."

Warren's at home against Erie East on Tuesday and Sheffield will visit Youngsville, now 0-2, the same night.

Warren's jayvees were victorious over Youngsville's, 48-39. Pat Hesch neted 12 and Tim Nelson 14 for Warren; John Blum's 13 was high for the Eagles.

Wolverines Take Second

By RANDY SCALISE

When you control the boards, you usually win the game. And that's what Sheffield did last night as it pulled down 67 rebounds to Tidioute's 43, as they romped to a 87-55 basketball victory over the much smaller and inexperienced Tidioute Bulldogs.

Craig Anderson led the way for the Wolverines, pulling down 19 rebounds and pumping in 34 points.

With the help of Rick McClellan's 17 and Scott Steffan's 14 rebounds, Sheffield dominated the boards until Anderson left the game in the early fourth quarter.

Sheffield jumped out to a quick 20-8 lead. Most of the points coming on Kevin Weigel lay-ups and Anderson jumpers.

With John McGraw, Tidioute's big man, being held to four points in the first half, the Wolverines kept pushing on, and the Bulldogs just could not contain Anderson. Sheffield's most proficient shooter rifled eight straight points in to swell his team's total to 38-18 at half time.

Tidioute came back in the second half mainly on the fact that McGraw had found his "eye," and the surprising sophomore, Ted Nuttall, was starting to give Anderson a battle on the boards.

Nuttall actually outrebounded Anderson 20-19 but many came after the Sheffield center had departed the game.

Sheffield's total rose to a 46-20 score when Tidioute started back. Downey sunk a three-point play and Nuttall hit on a lay-up and then a jumper to close it to a 46-27 margin.

When McGraw sandwiched a tip-in and a hook shot around a Rick McClellan foul shot, Tidioute was suddenly only 16 back.

But that was it for the Bulldogs, as Scott Steffan and Anderson combined for five baskets in a matter of just a little over a minute Sheffield was again comfortably out ahead.

Rick McAfoose mixed a couple of lay-ups in with two fouls shots early in the fourth quarter as the crowd stirred with hopes of another rally. But Tom Fitzgerald hit two long set shots to dash their hope and help salt away the game.

Sheffield's head coach, Rod Vashaw felt his team played very well, except for the turnovers and some sloppy ball handling.

"Our inside game worked very well. The entire team passed well underneath, and because we were much taller, we were able to control the boards."

Tidioute's mentor, Paul Ludwig, although a little disappointed, said his team played better in this game than they did against Commodore Perry. "We have a young, inexperienced team, and I was satisfied with their overall performance, especially that of Ted Nuttall's. He really surprised and pleased me with his rebounding."

Sheffield's jayvees made it a clean sweep with a 70-41 victory. Pat Malloy and Scott Duell each canned 17 points to top the Wolverines.

Sheffield travels to Youngsville next Tuesday for a match with the Eagles, while Tidioute will remain at home against Bradford.

Ike Wins 1st Match

Paul Brown of the Knights won a 2-0 decision in the final match of the evening to insure a 27-21 win for the Eisenhower wrestlers over Ripley in the season's opening meet.

Ike won eight of the 12 matches with Pete Spencer leading off with a 5-4 decision in the 98 lb. class. Willard Hitchcock led most of the way to record a 7-5 decision in 112 division.

After Bob Glotz was pinned at 126, Eisenhower put together five straight wins, starting with Dave VanOrd's pin in the 132 class. Sam Kellogg, 138, got a penalty point in the first period and added a two-point reversal in the final period for a 3-0 decision. Jeff Anderson, at 145, kept the victory string going by sweeping to a 6-0 blanking of his opponent.

Dick Wadworth won an easy 12-4 decision in the 155 lb. class, then Ray Parker added the fifth win with a 7-2 decision.

Ike's Kim Aharrah was defeated in the 177 class 12-11. Aharrah was called for locking his hands three times in the match, and the third infraction cost him two points and the match.

At that point, the match stood 24-21 with the Knights on top. A pin or decision for Ripley would have either won the match or tied it at 24-24.

But Brown used a second period penalty point and a two-point stand-up escape to win 3-0 and secure the victory for Eisenhower.

Ridgway and Saegertown came out on top of their Friday evening games, with the Elks squeezing by Kane, 55-41, and the Panthers dumping Sparta by 17, 64-47.

Kane trailed Ridgway by only five, 25-20, at the half, but a cold third period which netted only three points while the Elks were firing in 19 sealed the game's outcome.

Friday Night Basketball

Braves Snap Cavs Streak

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Walt Hazzard sank a technical foul shot with four seconds remaining Friday night, lifting the Buffalo Braves to a come-from-behind 91-90 victory over Cleveland that snapped the surprising Cavaliers' National Basketball Association winning streak at five games.

The Braves, trailing virtually all the way, tied it at 90-90 when Bob Kauffman, the game's leading scorer with 23 points, tapped in a rebound of Randy Smith's jump shot.

The Cavaliers immediately took the ball and called time out—but they didn't have any time outs left. That meant a technical foul and gave Hazzard the chance to sink the game-winning shot.

Cleveland received another blow earlier in the game when 6-foot-3 rookie guard Austin Carr, who had missed the Cavs' first 14 games with a fractured right foot, reinjured the foot in the second period and left the game. The extent of the injury was not immediately known.

Buffalo failed to sink a field goal until midway in the first period, trailed 27-13 going into the second period, drew into a 29-29 tie, fell behind 44-37 at the half, then pulled within a point at 64-63 going into the final quarter. the Braves led only once in the game, at 84-83 with 3:37 remaining.

Hazzard and Smith added 18 points apiece for Buffalo while Charlie Davis and Butch Beard topped the Cavs with 18 apiece and Bobby Smith chipped in 16.

Pistons Snap Losing Streak; Lanier Injured

DETROIT (AP) — Erwin Mueller, taking over for injured center Bob Lanier in the third period, tossed in 16 points Friday night to spark Detroit to a 113-112 victory over the Houston Rockets snapping a five-game Pistons losing streak..

Mueller collected 12 of his points in the final period, putting the Pistons ahead for keeps with two free-throws and a dunk shot after the score had been tied at 104-104 with three minutes to go.

After Mueller's basket, Willie Norwood hit two free throws to put the Pistons ahead by seven points, but then the Rockets rallied. Led by Elvin Hayes and Jim Davis, they pulled within one point with 40 seconds remaining.

DETROIT (AP) — Top-scoring Detroit Piston center Bob Lanier suffered a torn neck muscle in the third period of the National Basketball Association game with Houston here Friday night.

Lanier, who had been averaging 25 points and 14 rebounds a game, was taken to a local hospital for X-rays, team physicians said.

Lakers Charge

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, down by as many as 17 points in the third quarter, rallied to defeat the Philadelphia 76ers 131-116 Friday night, extending their National Basketball Association winning streak to 16 games.

Jim McMillian, Jerry West and Gail Goodrich combined for 101 points and Wilt Chamberlain played an outstanding defensive game as the Lakers roared back from an 82-65 deficit with 8:25 remaining in the third period.

The hot-shooting McMillian had a career high 41 points, 15 of which came in the third period when the Lakers began its comeback.

West had 32 points and Goodrich 28 for the Lakers, who haven't lost since Oct. 31. Chamberlain pulled down 25 rebounds and blocked nine shots in the game.

Bulls Rough

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls stole a page out of the book of the New York Knicks Friday night, using a tight defense to record a 122-96 National Basketball Association triumph.

Early in the third quarter, with the Bulls leading 68-55, Chicago went on to outscore New York 19-4 in a three minute period to put the game out of range.

Bob Love led all scorers with 29 points while Walt Frazier paced New York with 19.

The victory was the Bulls' 12th in the last 13 contests and avenged a one-point loss to New York Saturday night.

Royals Bucked

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob Dandridge's 27 points led a balanced attack as the Milwaukee Bucks, without the services of league scoring leader Kareem Jabbar, routed the Cincinnati Royals 120-82 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

The 7-foot-2 Jabbar was home with the flu but reserves John Block and Toby Kimball took charge of the boards for Milwaukee. Block scored 18 points, Jon McGlocklin 19 and Oscar Robertson—returning from a one game absence because of flu—had 17.

The Bucks scored nine straight points, eight by Dandridge, to take a 27-17 lead late in the first quarter.

Dandridge kept hitting from the baseline and McGlocklin got hot from outside in the second period. The Bucks outscored the Royals 13-2 at one point and led 60-42 at the half.

Bullets Glance

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics, led by Spencer Haywood's 35 points, downed the Baltimore Bullets 117-106, in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Knights Drubbed, 75-53 By Productive Trojans

Hopefully losing isn't becoming habitual for the Eisenhower basketball Knights, but last night the Blue and Gold lost its second of the year, 75-53, to a neighboring New York State five from Southwestern.

The game, played on the Knights own wood, turned into a rout from the very first period. Featuring the inside prowess of Bob Warner in the first period, Southwestern, on his eight points, was outclassing its opponent something horrendous. As he drove in and around the Knight defense, the Trojans were driving onward to a 26-point first period.

Don Tyler relieved Warner from his scoring responsibilities in the second period, sank eight more points and the Trojans were unmercifully beating back a troubled Ike offense. When the second half came to a long-awaited end for Eisenhower, the Knights were looking at the scoreboard from the standpoint of being down by 28, 52-24.

Southwestern went to its bench for the third period. It was in Eisenhower's class. With Mike Driscoll, VanCise and Randy Brown scoring four points each, Eisenhower took the third period, 14-12.

That was more like it. Ike got the hang of the evening's scoring tempo. Driscoll came back in the third period ready for action. Canning eight of the team's 17 fourth period points, he lessened the margin held by Southwestern to 22, and that's where the game ended.

Ike's jayvees were in the same boat as the varsity. The score of their contest was 57-39, Southwestern the winner. Young was high scorer for the Knights with 12. Ahlstrom had 16 for the guests.

Summors Returns To Gannon Quintet

Glenn Summors

Colin Malseed

Last season Dave Markey, in his first head job, had a team that won 11 of 25 games. Some say it could have been better, the Knights dropping five barnburners by five or less points. Some say it could have been worse including Sportswriter Jack Polancy, who covers the Knights, when he said they would not win more than ten. The 1970-71 Knights began the season with only three lettermen; Al Chrisman, Harry McLaughlin, and Steve Young. Young later had to hang it up after 12 games due to illness, and Markey had a team made up of many untried Sophomores and newcomers.

This season, prospects for a winning season are a little brighter. Markey has five lettermen, three of which started at the tag-end of 1970-71. However, the biggest rumble is caused by the return of Glen Summors, the super center already drafted by both the ABA and NBA. Summors received a legion of All-American notices after his Sophomore year, when he scored 515 points and grabbed 560 rebounds. Glen dropped from competition in his Junior year after 12 games in 1969-70, sat out the entire 1970-71 campaign, and is expecting to pick up where he left off. Glen is the premiere player of Gannon College.

The guard position appears sound, where no less than six — four of whom started at different times last season will struggle for starting spots. Dynamic Rick Livas, a 5'10" senior, has the edge. Ricky's defense, scoring, and hustle will have to provide the spark. Markey can also call on 5'11" Billy Callahan, (8.2 ppg), whose long-range southpaw jumpers keeps the defense honest. Colin Malseed (5.9) at 6'1" and 6'2" senior Don Cinque will both make their presence felt. Add to this 5'11" Marcel Arribi, the energetic floor leader and leading scorer off last seasons freshman team and 5'11" Dan Wall, a 27 year old Army veteran who last played under Jim Harding, and you have a picture of the competitive guard situation. Be certain of one thing — the pair of guards that emerges from this group will have earned their spots and will come ready to play.

The Knights are hurting on the front line, where Markey can call on only one player with any Varsity experience. However, he will not be a familiar face to Gannon fans. Dave Stoczynski, a graduate of Niagara Community College, is a certain starter at forward. "Stosh" is an agressive 6'5" rebounder who positions well and hustles all over the court. Dave was Niagara Community College's leading rebounder for two seasons and also can score, as attested by his 12.5 ppg average for the Frontiersmen. His running mate will be one of three untried candidates including two first year performers. Gerald Walker, a 6'5" frosh from Aliquippa, Pa., has the edge. Walker is a rugged rebounder who has exceptional poise for a Freshman. He can also score. Walker's physical strength has already caused his teammates to name him "Bad News", and he will have to be just that to the Knight opponents if they are to break .500. Also vieing for a starting spot is Jack Amphlett, a 6'3" jump shooter from Olean, New York, who can play either guard or forward. Amphlett has been severely handicapped by a sprained ankle, suffered in pre-season drills, which has not responded to treatment. Rounding out the squad is John Kness, a 6'5" center who sat out last season. Kness is also strong and agressive, and will add much needed depth on the front line.

The Knights have only 11 players on the Varsity, losing eight people before the start of the season. From the Freshman team, 6'8" Gary Lawrence transferred, 6'5" Jim Lewis (leading scorer and rebounder) did not return to school, and 6'1" Tom Jackson was declared ineligible. Knee injuries sidelined 6'8" Gary Weigel and 6'0" guard Jack MacMahon. As a result, only guard Marcel Arribi moves up to the Varsity. If this was not enough, 6'8" John Wassell will be lost for the first semester on grades, and 6'3" Harry McLaughlin, a three year veteran, dropped from the squad after a month of practice. The Knights also lost an outstanding prospect in Junior College transfer Rick Hockenos, who left school. However, these losses have not dampered Markey's enthusiasm or the attitude of the squad.

Last year the Knights met nine opponents (7 on the road) that earned post-season tourney bids, losing to all but two. This winter the Audi will truly be the "House of Thrills" as seven of this elite group will attack the Knights at home.

In summary, the 1970-71 Knights will have better rebounding and scoring with the addition of Summors, Stoczynski, and Walker. Markey intends to fast break more, and attack agressively both with the ball and on defense. This type of game results in more personal fouls, and the Knights are not that deep or experienced. With no injuries or foul trouble, the Knights speed, and hustle that will take the game to their opponents will make for an interesting season. The Knights schedule, with 16 home games, will be in their favor as they seek a return to post season tourney action.

NFL Weekends Build Tension

DALLAS (AP) — The contrast of quarterbacks should be one of the exciting highlights of Saturday's National Football League tussle between the New York Jets and the Dallas Cowboys on coast-to-coast television.

Broadway Joe Namath of the Jets wears his hair long, hugs the pocket like it was a bearskin rug, has a flair for the long touchdown pass, and has set more than one young lady's heart a flutter.

Roger Staubach of the Cowboys crops his hair short, scrambles like a berserk moongoose, relishes the sideline routes, and has a big night out when he takes the family to an ice cream parlor for a double dip.

Namath has professional football's quickest release while Staubach, who spent four years in the Navy, is still working on his.

Namath is expected to start his first regular season game since October, 1970 in the 4 p.m. EST kickoff in Texas Stadium.

The Jets are 4-7 and out of the AFC Eastern Division race.

The Cowboys have won four consecutive games and are making a drive similar to the one in 1970 which landed them in the Super Bowl. The Cowboys are 8-3 and own a halfgame edge over second-place Washington in the NFC East.

Dallas is undefeated with Staubach as the No. 1 quarterback. Since Coach Tom Landry decided to go with the former Heisman Trophy winner as the top quarterback over Craig Morton the Cowboys have defeated St. Louis, Philadelphia, Washington and Los Angeles.

The Cowboys have the best defense against the rush in the NFC but are dead last in pass defense.

Sunday's schedule has the New York Giants, 4-7, at Washington, 7-3-1; Cincinnati, 4-7, at Cleveland, 6-5; Pittsburgh, 5-6, at Houston, 1-9-1; New Orleans, 4-5-2, at Los Angeles, 6-4-1; Oakland, 7-2-2, at Atlanta, 5-5-1; Buffalo, 1-10, at Baltimore, 8-3; Miami, 9-1-1, at New England, 4-7; Green Bay, 3-7-1, at St. Louis, 4-7; Philadelphia, 3-7-1, at Detroit, 7-3-1; Chicago, 6-5, at Denver, 3-7-1, and Minnesota 9-2, at San Diego, 4-7.

Monday night Kansas City, 7-3-1, will be at San Francisco, 7-4.

Local Newsman Remembers Erie Sports Editor, Gene Cuneo, Well

By DENNY BONAVITA
News Editor

His typewriter clattered out its staccato column every Sunday and most weekdays for the past quarter-century, and through his words in the Erie Daily Times and Erie Times-News, plus such special publications as Sports Illustrated, Parade, The Sporting News and Sport Magazine, more than half a million people learned to know Gene Cuneo.

They knew him, as I first did, as a half-column photo of a wispy face with a stand-up shock of gray-black hair, comfortable rocking-chair writing style and an inexhaustible fund of sports stories about the great events and players of our time.

They also knew him, through his "Things We Should Have Said Before," as a man with another inexhaustible fund of knowledge—this about people. Quips and anecdotes about friends (he had enough to pack a gymnasium) light and lively bits of whimsy about bets gone awry and practical jokes pulled by and to sports figures and sports fans and regular installments, without benefit of research besides what he kept in his head, of the myriad minutiae upon which sports fans feed as they follow their favorites—these were his bill of fare.

To his readers, he was many things: an oracle to be praised or disputed according to the accuracy of his prognostications and the sentiments of his fans; a "must read" spot in Sunday's Times-News as soon as one returned home from church; a writer whose words spoke with equal ease of and to the high and mighty and the man at the $2 window.

To a slightly scared kid with a need for a job and some pretensions at writing ability, he was somewhere between Babe Ruth and the Almighty on a spring day in 1963. He talked awhile, glanced at some rewrites I had done, and smiled as he gave me my first job in this business.

Through that job and his tutelage, I first learned the techniques of my craft; and because of that relationship, I held him in the awe one reserves for the great teachers of one's life.

A Very Human Guy

But Cuneo made sure that awe changed quickly to warm friendship and I became aware of the man behind the typewriter as a co-worker and a friend. Insiders in the business all stood in awe of his technical genius; it was an oft-repeated truism that Gene, who relished his beer as much as he relished the daily boxscores, could write a column or put together a sports section better while listing slightly to port and humming an Irish tune than his whole staff working together could do while stone cold sober.

But many men can master techniques; he could master people, because he was essentially a very human guy.

Though the black-tie set smiled and bought a round when he joined them at gathering, he shunned the "inner circles" of status-conscious for his own inner circles: the grandstands, the bars and the restaurants wwhere Joe Average stopped for a beer on the way home or sat when he and his family went to Cleveland to see a baseball game.

He had the courage of his convictions, too; a phone call to an unlisted number and a quick rattling off of selections for Sunday's games and the amounts he would venture were, for a time, an integral part of his work night on Saturdays while putting together the Sunday sports section. So also was a call to his home; he spoke with genuine affection of his family always, even laughing at the little irritations of family life instead of being upset by them.

He joked and laughed often, and I never heard him give a flat-out order to his staff; he usually didn't have to. He possessed the Irish "gift," and could accomplish even a disagreeable assignment with a wink, a bit of patter and a nod in the right direction.

But though he could laugh at another man's misfortune if the situation were harmless, he had a keen sympathy for genuine suffering; he mourned the passing of each old friend with genuine sadness, were the deceased a friend of years or of minutes.

Though he had the cynical shell of a veteran newsman, it parted easily to show that grief, or to show indignation and biting anger if the occasion demanded. He firmly believed in the essential value of sports. He drew a sharp, clear line between those actions by athletes, coaches or fans which were acceptable and those which violated the basic canons of morality—not the church-going morality, but the man-to-man fair play that is born of comradeship, whether on the athletic field or in the shop.

As an athlete, he was probably mediocre, though he proudly detailed the mechanics of his two-handed set shot that, he alluded, had once made him a valued teammate on the Boys' Club court. I saw him in action only once—a fortyish chain-smoker with a small belly, already feeling occasional twinges from what was to become the cancer that killed him. The occasion was one of those whacky sportswriter-vs.-sportscaster games, this one a broom-hockey brooms and basketballs, and galoshes) game at Erie's Glenwood Ice Rink.

Then 22, I played hard—but quickly tired swinging at that weirdly-skidding ball on that slippery ice against the likes of All-America gridder Rich Arrington (a "ringer" for the 'casters). Gasping for breath, I nearly fell once. Who caught me? Yep. That wheezing, rumpled "old man"; only he was whooping with glee and cavorting around like a young beagle on a rabbit hunt. Was it stamina? "Hell no," he chirped. "This is just too much fun to be tired—right?"

That attitude was his approach to life—every day of it.

We parted a few years later; I needed more money, and though he argued to get it for me, he wasn't successful. So he did the next best thing. With a phone call, he set me up for the better paying job I needed.

Hearing about a possible job in Warren some years later, he remembered the kid he'd once hired, then working in Ohio. He not only told me about the job; he asked me how much money I wanted, and then told the publisher that I would be a bargain at the price.

As colleagues, our paths rarely crossed in recent years. Once in awhile we would yak at a banquet, and he never failed to get his young protege a choice interview with the star attraction (they all knew him and sought him out) while other writers fretted outside. We occasionally tore pages from each other's papers, circled a particularly good story or a particularly bad malapropism, and mailed them to each other with appropriate wisecracks.

Even that stopped in recent months, as his illness took its toll. I looked in vain for him at the World Series, and made mental notes to get up to Erie and see him—notes I always put off. I always hoped for a chance to do him a favor. It never came, but he didn't mind. For he helped people, whether with advice, a long-sought autograph, or a favor, because he liked them—nothing more.

When I inquired about his health from mutual acquaintances, the answer was always the same: "He's not getting better." When I asked about his mental attitude, again the answer was always the same: "He's amazing." He knew what he had and what it would do to him, and he accepted it as much as the hopelessly-behind basketball team accepts the last minutes of a game: he gave it all he had out of pride, but expected the final whistle.

How good a sportswriter was he? It is my own unqualified opinion that he was spectacular whenever he wanted to be. He had learned his craft the hard way—by writing since grade school. He never went to college. But he could write knowledgeably or ingenuously; sarcastically or sympathetically; jocularly or gravely; personally or objectively. And when he finished, and when I read it, I understood about the game, or the person, or the story—and so did the college professor and the semi-illiterate.

He closed his column often with a "remember-when" reference to the past. Now, in the minds of most sports fans, he belongs to that past. For me, though, this past quarter-century will always be the time when Gene Cuneo was the best damn sportswriter and one of the finest human beings I ever knew.

Thanks, Gene...thanks for everything.

Just How Good Is Penn State?

BY HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Penn State football team begins a tale of two cities Saturday—Knoxville, Tenn., and Dallas, Tex.—to determine just how good the fifth-ranked Nittany Lions really are.

"I don't know whether our schedule is that easy or we're that good," says Coach Joe Paterno, who leads his Cotton Bowl squad into Saturday's nationally televised battle—ABC-TV, 12:30 p.m., EST—against Bill Battle's Tennessee Volunteers.

"Tennessee," Paterno continues, "is a very fine football team. They are probably the best defensive team we have played and they have been better offensively in the last few weeks."

The 12th-ranked Vols show an 8-2 record, have won five in a row and are headed for the Liberty Bowl to play Arkansas. Penn State is a 10-0 and will meet Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

College football's regular campaign grinds to a halt with four other games—third-ranked Oklahoma at Oklahoma State in the afternoon and top-rated Nebraska at Hawaii, Syracuse at Miami, Fla., and North Texas State at San Diego State at night.

"I think if we beat Tennessee and Texas, I'm gonna shoot my mouth off again," said Paterno, who finds his undefeated Lions rated behind three other unbeatens—Nebraska, Alabama and Michigan—and once-beaten Oklahoma.

"This is a real good Penn State team, but how good we won't know until we play Tennessee and Texas. I'd put this team right up there in a class with Nebraska, Alabama and Michigan, but I'm not about to say we're better than any of them now. A lot depends on how we do against Tennessee before I say we're No.1. We haven't done it yet, but this could be the best team we've ever had."

Battle isn't about to disagree.

"Penn State has scored more than 200 points in the second half and only given up about 30," he points out. They've killed people in the second half, which a great football team will do. You hear a lot about Lydell Mitchell and their offense, but they've got a great defense, too."

Tennessee's offense has shown signs of life since Jim Maxwell was installed at quarterback, the Vols' fourth signal-caller this season.

"People didn't play us honest early in the season," says Battle, who shows a brilliant 19-3 record in two seasons as the nation's youngest head coach.

Wheeler-Dealers Active In Last Baseball Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Baseball's most explosive trading week ever concluded on a characteristic note Friday with three more deals, two of them coming in the middle of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's wrap-up press conference.

The commissioner graciously yielded the floor twice. First, Cincinnati sent relief pitcher Wayne Granger to Minnesota for left-hander tom Hall and San Diego sent highly-regarded left-hander Dave Roberts to Houston for three minor leaguers—pitchers Bill Greif and Mark Schaeffer and infielder Derrel Thomas.

The furious wheeling and dealing let up enough for Commissioner Kuhn to finish and then Frank "Trader" Lane, Milwaukee's dynamic general manager, struck. Lane sent veteran center fielder Jose Cardenal to the Chicago Cubs for outfielder Brock Davis and pitchers Jim Colborn and Earl Stephenson.

That brought to 15 the number of deals concluded since the Cubs started the action at the beginning of the week by sending left-hander Ken Holtzman to Oakland for outfielder Rick Monday. A total of 53 players were involved in the spree of trades.

And the major league general managers may not be finished yet. They still have 10 days to deal across league lines—a grace period they lose next year.

One of the developments Kuhn was announcing when he was interrupted was that the two leagues had agreed that the inter-league trading period next year would end at midnight of the final day of the winter meetings.

Ironically, he was halted at that point by the Minnesota-Cincinnati inter-league swap of pitchers.

The Twins exchanged Hall, a thin left-hander who was 4-7 last season, for the lanky Granger, who was 7-6 with 11 saves in 70 games for the Reds. Granger set a major league record two years ago when he appeared in 90 games.

With that trade completed, the spotlight switched back to Kuhn, who reported on some more administrative housecleaning for perhaps two minutes when he was interrupted again.

This time it was Roberts, one of the Padres quality pitchers, going to Houston for three minor leaguers. It was the third trade of the meetings for Houston General Manager Spec Richardson, who made off with slugger Lee May in an eight-man swap with Cincinnati on Monday.

In exchange, the Padres got three young prospects. All spent the 1971 season at Oklahoma City of the Pacific Coast League, Greif compiling an 8-9 record, Schaeffer showing a 2-7 log and Thomas batting .286.

By this time, Kuhn was getting the message and his press conference ended in a hurry, just a step ahead of the Chicago-Milwaukee announcement.

The 3-for-1 Brewer-Cub swap came some 10 minutes after the Reds and Twins had started the excitement and, with 10 players involved in Friday's three trades, it meant one player for every minute it took to make the announcements.

The Cubs, who came to these meetings hungry for a center fielder, talked Lane out of Cardenal, but it cost them three players. That means Monday, acquired from the A's, will probably be used in right field next season.

Milwaukee also got two young pitchers who spent most of the 1971 season at Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League. Colborn was 8-9 and Stephenson, a left-hander, was 6-5 for the PCL team.

Only seven of the 24 major league teams were not involved in any transactions this week. Name sluggers Frank Robinson and Rich Allen were dealt within minutes of one another on Thursday. Cleveland and San Francisco engaged in a daring swap of pitching superstars with Sam McDowell going for Gaylord Perry on Monday. Top flight pitchers like Stan Bahnsen, Tommy John and Roberts were dealt with startling speed.

All of the trades overshadowed the administrative goings-on which included a somewhat ominous visit of a group of Congressmen, seeking to have baseball return to Washington, D.C. by 1973.

Kuhn appointed a committee to work with the Washington delegation.

State Not Executing Anyone; Officials Dispute Policy Merits

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Juries still sentence killers to death in Pennsylvania—the most recent just two weeks ago—but no one has been executed in the nation's third largest state since April, 1962.

The electric chair has been dismantled.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp has said he would never sign anyone's death warrant while he's in office, which is at least until the end of 1974 when his present term expires.

"It's the law the death sentence and it's a joke," says Richard Sprague, the first assistant district attorney of Philadelphia who wants executions revived. And there are reports he may seek an injunction to force the governor to act.

Of 26 men now awaiting execution in Pennsylvania, 13 were convicted by Sprague, a hard-liner on law and order who has never lost any of the 66 murder cases he's tried.

No date of execution has been set for any of them.

"Without death truly staring them in the face, admitted killers can thumb their noses at the law, at the police, at the prosecutor," says Sprague, who insists justice should be meted out swiftly. "If a convicted killer can hang on in jail for many years, he's beating the rap and laughing at the public."

Sprague points to Anthony Scoleri as a prime example. He's been on death row 12 years and four months for a 1958 slaying of a Philadelphia merchant. He has had three trials, three convictions, three death sentences and is still appealing.

"If the death penalty is used, if convicted murderers are executed after a fair trial before an impartial jury, it is a deterrent to the planned, calculated murder," Sprague insists.

Across the nation more than 660 persons now are under sentence of death, the greatest number in California—102.

The last execution in the United States was on June 2, 1967.

Sprague decries this inaction, calls it self-defeating, a travesty of justice.

"From a practical standpoint lawyers who represent murder defendants always try to bargain for their clients," Sprague says. "Thus we can get many pleas of guilty to first-degree murder, with a recommendation of life, because the defendant knows he could get death if he goes to trial.

"But if you wipe out the death penalty, and life is the harshest verdict, then in order to get a guilty plea, and avoid a costly, protracted trial, the state would have to bargain for a lesser penalty—and justice is going to be a big loser this way."

Warden Joseph Mazurkiewicz of the Rockview State Correctional Institution disagrees. He stored the electric chair in the basement of his prison last January, on orders of the attorney general, and converted the $50,000 death chamber built in 1915 into an office.

"I never thought capital punishment was a deterrent," says Mazurkiewicz, a psychologist. "I feel some way we have to reach out and recover these people. I saw a number who were under the death penalty go through a number of behavior changes, receive commutation and later be paroled. Some of them are doing well on the outside today."

Former Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, who never allowed an execution during his four-year term, believes Sprague is right in advocating enforcement.

"I am not yet convinced that there is anything to be gained by abolishing the death penalty," Shafer says. "If even one life of an innocent victim can be saved because of the possibility of a death sentence, then the death sentence should be retained."

House Majority Leader K. Leroy Irvis, a Pittsburgh Democrat, calls the death penalty "a holdover from the age of barbarism when we didn't know how to handle people who were criminals in any other way except to kill them."

The state legislature, for a half dozen years at least, has had bills before it to kill the death penalty. No action has yet been taken.

The question also is before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Today a person sentenced to life serves an average of 12 years before parole. Sprague calls this far too short for the taking of a life.

Irvis, in battling for an end to death, supports what he calls a "true life sentence," one where parole would be denied forever.

Sprague, however, fears no law could be that absolute, and that it would be subject to the kind of judicial and gubernatorial loopholes that now prevents the carrying out of the death sentence law.

Pennsylvania last used its electric chair to execute Elmo Smith, a Bridgeport handyman convicted of killing a teen-aged girl. He was the 350th to die in the chair since it was built in 1915 to replace hangings.

From 1688, starting in the days of William Penn, there were approximately 700 hangings in the state. In 1834 Pennsylvania led the nation in outlawing public executions, taking hangings out of the town squares and into the privacy of jails.

Up to then, hangings were treated as spectacles, witnessed sometimes by thousands who often were charged for up-front seats.

County Welfare Costs Up, Administration Costs Down

Times-Mirror & Observer
Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG— Public assistance costs in Warren County have shown a steady increase in comparison with a year ago, climbing from a monthly $275,744 to $327,384, a just completed report by the State Department of Public Welfare indicated today.

(The trend in Warren County however is not unusual—not unusual, that is, in that relief expenditures in general throughout the state have been on the upswing with all counties reporting relief cost hikes during the 12-month span.)

A breakdown of cash assistance grants for Warren County in May of this year, latest month for which the department has final figures, clearly shows the upswing trend with the pay-out in relief cash climbing from $83,324 a year ago to a current $108,780.

Vendor payments for medical assistance in the county climbed from $176,846 to $206,414.

Interestingly perhaps, under the heading "county administration", cost of administering the program in Warren County decreased from $15,574 to $12,190 for the same month this year.

Looking at the meat of the relief program in Warren County—cash assistance grants—the $327,384 expenditure for the month breaks down further as follows (with the 1970 expenditure for the month in parenthesis):

Old-age assistance—$24,806 ($23,021); blind pensions—$4,979 ($4,400); aid to dependent children—$61,279 ($43,094); general assistance—$7,662 ($2,600); aid to disabled—$10,054 ($10,209).

Conversational Counselling And Compost

By Bernie Wingert, County Agent

After spending the early part of the week at Hunting Camp and thinking of absolutely nothing very important except how to do my part on the Deer drives, how to win the next hand of cards, and how to get someone else to carry in the wood, I returned to a flurry of put-off work.

Thursday evening the County Holstein Club elected new officers, the Fair Board also elected new officers, and Friday morning a steering committee met to see about organizing a county chapter of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association. I must discuss more about this Forestry meeting in a moment. Any way I attended all these sessions and thought... "Gee, but there are a lot of meetings and I don't have my Deer yet, nor my Christmas shopping thought about, nor my last year's annual report written."

In spite of these troubles the idea of still spending another day or two engaged in the quiet art of standing near a hemlock tree, waiting for the biggest rack of them all to come by, remained uppermost in the mind.

Last Fall, the Pennsylvania Forestry Association held a meeting to discuss ecology and forestry related environmental problems. Local conservationists, foresters and just "plain interested people" attended. They heard Sam Cobb, State Forester, Jim Vessey, retired Regional Forester from the U.S. Forest Service, and Ed Farrand, Penn State Extension Forester, discuss some of the problems of our times. In general, here's what they talked about..."Publicity about environmental problems has done for forestry what a half century of hard work in the woods couldn't do. It has made our forests a subject of popular concern. The forest is a dynamic part of the ecosystem in which we live, supplying oxygen, water-shed protection, wildlife habitat and recreation."

And since so much depends on this vital resource we're inviting everyone to attend another similar meeting in the County Courthouse at 8 p.m. on Thursday, December 9th. John Fralish, P.F.A. Executive Director, will be here to explain the on-going program and direction of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association. Another attraction of the evening will be a slide story presentation called "Trees and The way We Live." Please come—it's not just for the dues paying member.

To go on with the tale of organizations and their problems, on Friday afternoon a nominating committee met in our own shop to seek nominees for the Board of Directors sometimes called the Warren County Agricultural Executive Committee. After an hour or so of suggestions, a slate was selected. So if you get a call within a few days asking for your help to run the Cooperative Extension Service Program, please say "yes."

I'm told that any organization runs on motivation, conviction and morale. Men and women have to believe that they are needed and that their efforts as individuals will mean something for the organization. And, although we seem to be extremely over-organized these days, it's a mighty good thing that there are folks left who care and are willing to do the "necessary work." It's the unnecessary that gets ya!!

Sheffield Schedule Of Coming Events

The Sheffield Progressive Woman's Club will hold its Christmas Party on Monday, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. at the Bethany Lutheran Church. A program of "Organ Music" will be presented by Charles Young. Hostess for the evening will be Mrs. Raymon Streich and serving on the committee will be Mrs. Richard McGuire and Mrs. W. W. McMillen.

The Sheffield V.F.W. Auxiliary will hold its Christmas Party at the Longview Inn on Monday, Deq. 20 at 7:30 p.m. Price for the dinner will be $3.00, with the auxiliary paying half for all members. There will be a two dollar gift exchange at the party. Members should contact Mrs. Ann Moldovan at 968-5236 or Mrs. Lillian Zevotek at 968-5219 for further information and reservations.

The Bethany Lutheran Church Women will hold an Advent Candlelighting Service at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 5 at the church. The program is entitled "Christmas Parable." Chairman of the event is Mrs. Everrett Benson. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Carl F. Eliason and Mrs. Theodore Anundson. Members are requested to bring cookies, coffee, bread, etc.

The regular meeting of Bethany Lutheran Church Women will be held on Thursday, Dec. 9 at 6:30 p.m. with a tureen dinner preceding the meeting. The program, with Miss Barbara Burgason as chairman, is entitled "The Best Christmas Ever." Hostesses will be Mrs. Clarence Danielson and Mrs. Laurence Stotz.

The Twirlette Mother's Club will meet on Wednesday, Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Linda Ristau on Foulkrod St.

The Junior Woman's Club will meet on Monday, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. in the lower level of the Sheffield Medical Center. This will be Guest Night, with the program to be presented by Mostert's Bakery of Warren. Serving on the committee will be Mrs. Ron Kelly and Mrs. Michael Servesko.

The annual Christmas Party of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Sheffield United Methodist Church will be held in the church parlors on Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 1 p.m. This will be a tureen with dessert provided by the committee. Those planning to attend are asked to bring your own table service.

It was decided last winter to give a Christmas gift to the Goodwill Industries Auxiliary, so each member is asked to bring a gift of money for this project, rather than gifts for the former project.

The special communications system setup by Bell Telephone Co. at the Knotty Pine Restaurant in Tionesta handled 135 calls by hunters Monday evening as nimrods talked to their families at home. Richard Broxton, Bell Telephone manager from Warren, was on hand to assist with the operation.

Representatives of several government bodies were invited to attend a meeting Thursday evening on Route 59. Even Warren Borough's councilmen were asked to sit in—though the roadway discussed lies entirely in Mead Township.

Unfortunately, however, somebody forgot to invite the Mead Township Supervisors...only a minor faux pas...but an unfortunate oversight nonetheless. Perhaps in the future these three gentlemen, who have as much interest in Route 59 as any Warren Borough councilman, will be asked to join the Route 59 discussions.

After all, they represent the people that live along the roadway; surely they should have a voice.

A U.S. Marine, home on leave, got his buck around noon Thursday in the vicinity of Starbrick School. But the circumstances were unusual, to say the least. Children from the 4th and 6th grades at lunchtime, investigated why two little dogs were making a fuss near a stream. They discovered that a spiked buck, which had been shot, had one dog pinned down with a spike. One student dashed home, got his brother, Lyle Hetrick, who then bagged his buck, according to a teacher at the school.

It's often been said by political analysts that the people in Washington, D.C. are a little behind the times. According to a story in Thursday's Pittsburgh Press a Washington group met in secret session with major league baseball club owners Wednesday "to demand a new team by the start of the 1937 season."

Maybe they're planning to draft Joe DiMaggio in the first round!

Christmas Seal Chest X-Ray Bus Active In County

The Christmas Seal chest x-ray bus recently visited Warren County and took 381 chest pictures of school personnel, according to Mrs. Leo E. Minnelli, Warren County Christmas Seal Campaign Chairman.

The schools surveyed and the number participating in this key health service were: Eisenhower High School, Sugar Grove -- 65; Youngsville High School -- 76; Warren Area High School -- 182; Allegheny Elementary School, Clarendon -- 23; and Sheffield High School -- 35.

Reports on the findings of each chest x-ray will be sent to everyone participating in the survey in approximately 3 weeks.

Mrs. Minnelli reminds Warren County residents that the Christmas Seal Campaign which helps support this and many other respiratory health programs is currently underway in Warren County. A good response to the fund appeal has been noted for this area but residents are still being encouraged to continue their support to the end of the Campaign. In controlling emphysema, tuberculosis, smoking and air pollution, "There's more to do -- Give more to Christmas Seals." It's a matter of life and breath!

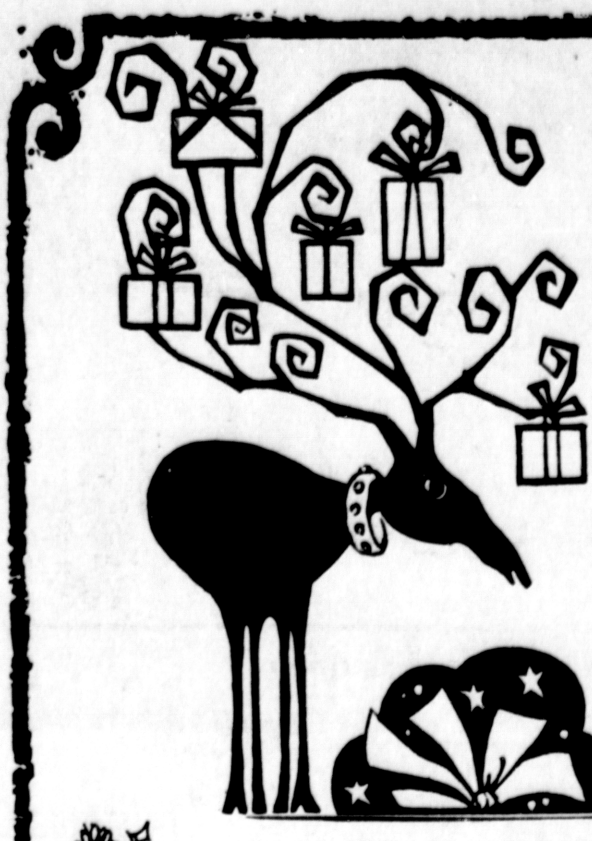

Area Men in Armed Service

Four Warren County men enlisted in the U.S. Army this week. They are Don M. McLaughlin III, 2 Kinnear st., Tidioute, who will serve in Europe for 16 months; James M. Brown, 214 Park st., Warren, enlisted for two years and Robert L. Haupin, 218 Averill st., Warren, who enlisted as a turbine engine repairman. These three enlisted Dec. 2.

Enlisting for two years Dec. 3 was Howard L. McAvoy, RD 2, Pittsfield.

Pat McCurdy

Friend Of Senior Citizens

Special To Times-Mirror and Observer
By Franklin R. Hoff

"When somebody goes out and does something, without being told, the angels in Heaven stand up and cheer!" declared Elbert Hubbard, the Sage of East Aurora. The Celestial cheering section really sent up a loud "Hoorah!" when Pat McCurdy, a young woman from Warren, became so deeply interested in the Warren Senior Center, and other centers, she set out on a three months safari, to find out what was going on and how the Warren Senior Center compares with others across the continent.

Pat McCurdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCurdy, Pleasant Township, has worked as a volunteer for more than two years at the Warren Senior Center. She became concerned over the needs and opportunities for senior citizens. Since, to her knowledge, no one had ever made a comprehensive study of senior centers, their programs and progress, or any exchange of information between them, during last June, July, August and part of September, Pat visited 51 different centers and agencies in fifteen states and four provinces in Canada.

A veteran camper, Pat traveled with a station wagon equipped with back-pack, tent and other gear. Wherever she went there were astonished folks who exclaimed: "Are you really traveling alone? Ye gods—you've got guts!!" Nearly everywhere she visited senior centers and agencies she was welcomed enthusiastically. At three stops—in Calgary, Laramie and Dallas,—she stayed with friends. "Free beds, free meals and free showers were most welcome!" she observes.

In her junior year at Bowling Green University, Pat planned that her summer research project should be educative and productive as possible, and economical travelwise. She managed her entire 17,000-mile tour for $450.

"On the road I met a lot of people—and people are the whole thing," Pat explains. "I'm hooked on people. Senior citizens are people who have needs. They have much in common—housing, health, economics—to mention three good issues to organize around."

Experience with senior centers has shown that older citizens can't be segregated into a group unto themselves. They must be a part of the community. The community must know and understand their special problems and needs. "Everyone has a need to be needed—which is even more basic than 'love,' " she points out. "It can't be a one-way street. Senior citizens can fill a lot of their own needs—but they must also be related to the rest of the community."

A feeling that you are needed gives a sense of dignity. Miss McCurdy recalls a man in North Little Rock, Arkansas who lived in a senior housing project, in a poverty area. The senior center there had an extensive crafts program. Although staff salaries were federally funded, this did not include the crafts and other phases of the program. Funds for the crafts program were obtained by selling objects made by the ceramics class group, which found a ready sale. This man volunteered to do the firing of the ceramics for the class that met once each week. It took him all week to do this. He was the indispensible man, because the entire program of the center depended upon making and selling the ceramic work. His contribution is thoroughly appreciated by everyone involved. He's happy because he is needed!

Pat McCurdy for the past two years has helped edit the Warren Senior Center's newsletter, "Senior Times." She carried copies of this lively publication with her, and gave them to senior centers and agencies she visited. In exchange she received their publications and reports. Upon her return she had accumulated a formidable cargo of programs, publications and voluminous notes covering her pioneering research project. Even condensed, her report, when finally written, extends to twenty-seven legal-sized pages. She published it under the title: "An Outline of Who Is Doing What, Where, Why and How—Random Visitation of Senior Citizens Centers." It is presented in a form that enables anyone in the field of senior citizen activity to obtain a broad view of programs in operation both in the United States and Canada. It is a gold mine of source material on every phase of this field concerning a most important segment of our citizens who constitute about one in ten of our total population. The Warren Senior Center has mailed copies to every one of the centers and agencies Pat McCurdy visited.

So far as can be determined, nothing like her report has ever before been compiled. To make it extremely usable, it is broken down into sections covering: Senior Power, Senior Economics, Transportation, Health, Nutrition, Housing, Employment, Programing, Education, Funding, Miscellaneous; and two appendices. One appendix lists the centers visited, with their addresses, and summaries of their funding sources. The other covers an extensive list of materials and publications available to those concerned with our senior citizens and problems of aging.

As a result of her first-hand study, Pat McCurdy has set as her goal a career in senior citizen organization, education—the entire field. Convinced that her liberal arts studies do not supply the necessary curriculum to equip her for her chosen professional career—which embraces geriatrics, psychology and special sociology courses she will be among the first to undertake a pioneering one-semester intensive course in a new Institute of Geriontology conducted jointly by the University of Michigan and Wayne State University. The residence course is limited to fifty selected students. Credit can be at either graduate or undergraduate level. There are four different curriculums to choose from. It will include eight weeks of classes, then four weeks of actual field work, in various parts of the nation, some as far away as California. The final four weeks of summaries follows. The total program is federally funded. The program is designed to equip the student for whatever most interests him in the field of aging. It will include young people, senior citizens, clergymen—anyone with a deep interest.

Its projected four curriculums include Retirement Housing Management, Milieu Therapy, Public Policy, Multi-Service Senior Centers.

Upon completion of this intensive semester of study, Pat McCurdy expects to begin her career working with senior centers.

Pat's summer safari was a labor of love. "I was doing it because I wanted to. I felt the need for communication among senior citizens," she observes. "There are a lot of great ideas going on in a comparatively few geographic areas of the country. If people can learn about these ideas, and know where they can write for information, they can start sharing them."

One of her most enthusiastic receptions was at Hull House, the Jane Adams Center in Chicago. One staff member was a Vista worker. She also talked to a member of the senior center.

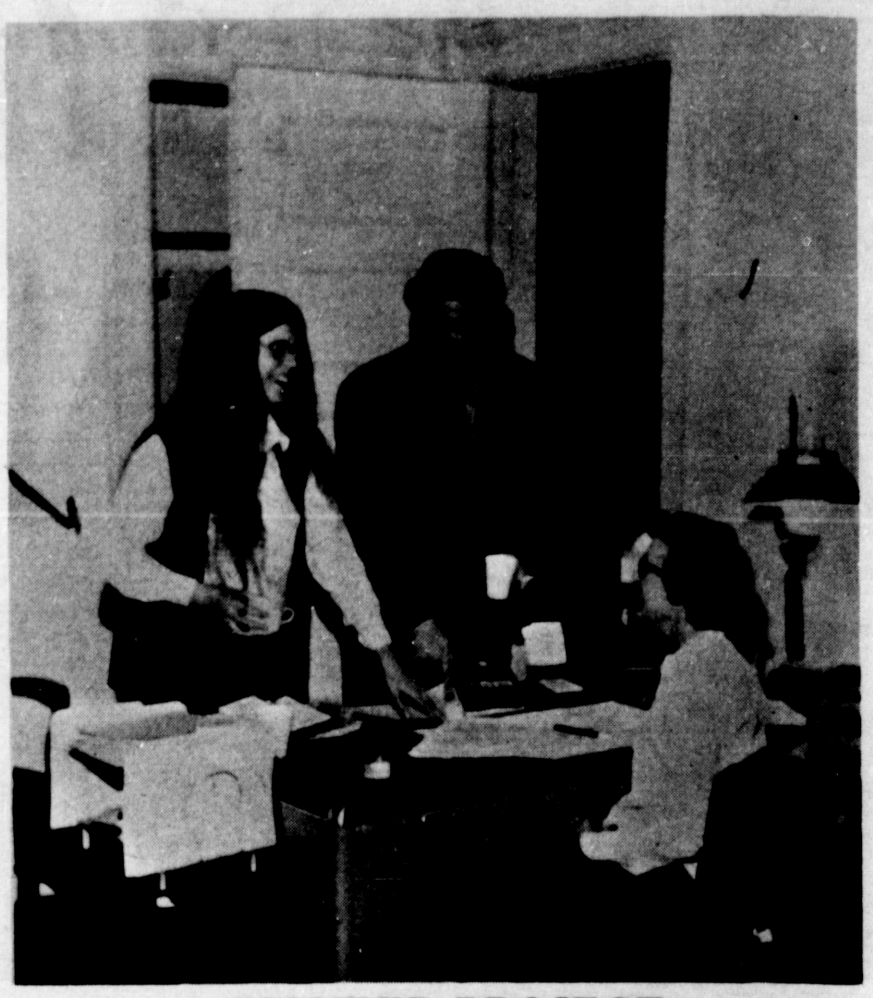

At the University of Calgary in Canada, she was privileged to confer with one of the most eminent authorities in the field of gerontology today, Dr. David Schonfield. A pioneer researcher and activist, in his "Family Life Education—The Later Adult Years," Schonfield points out that in our youth oriented society today the older adult is often totally ignored, which makes it necessary that education step in and remove part of the stigma of old age, and erase the obsolete "rocking chair" image.

Pat McCurdy reminds us that many people fail to realize the profound changes that have occurred in the past half century. It is no longer the neighborhood of 50, 60 or 80 years ago. People are mobile, move across the continent, change jobs. The rural village and farm homestead family, where every member from infants to great grandparents were needed, and everyone was a producer, has practically disappeared. Today's older citizens cannot always totally relate to their family and to the community. They do not always fill their personal needs.

Upon completion of her report, Miss McCurdy gave a vivid presentation of her tour to the board of directors of the Warren Senior Center Experience, Inc. It was gratifying to learn that the Warren Center, with its many activities and programs, compares more than favorably with the other 50 centers throughout the continent she visited. "Most centers," she explains "don't have a craft and woodworking shop for men. This is important, because many men are frustrated with retirement. Only one other place has a program assisted by mental health funds. The Big Springs, Texas project is affiliated with the Big Springs State Hospital.

Only one other place, in

PIONEER PROJECT

SERVES SENIOR CITIZENS

Pat McCurdy

Springfield, Illinois, has a "Widow-to-Widow" or "Lassies without Laddies" program. It also has a day-care program for nursing home patients. Warren Senior Center day care program also works with patients from Warren State Hospital, from nursing homes and foster homes, as well as from private homes. One part of the Warren Senior Center day care programs helps Warren State Hospital patients, who are scheduled to be discharged to reorient themselves to normal community life, after their stay in an institution.

Warren center also has a pre-retirement program, which many people between 55 and 65 years are taking advantage of. It helps them plan for their future retirement and become aware of the opportunities for a new career and a new way of life, when this time arrives. There are a few such projects in the very large cities, but most smaller senior citizen centers do not offer them.

The Warren Center's "Senior Times" newsletter compares most favorably with the best in the land.

The success of the Warren Senior Center in meeting the needs of elder citizens of Warren County is reflected statistically. "When I first came here as a volunteer in 1969," Pat recalls, "the membership was something over 400. Today 650 different people participate." Volunteers, who are so essential to the center's programs, contribute as much as 250 volunteer hours per week. During the last fiscal year, ended June 30, 1971, the center had served 8,000 meals. Over 14,000 individual visits were made to the center during that year.

One great lesson that impressed Pat McCurdy during her trip is that older citizens must exert "Senior Power" in order to command attention of government at all levels, and attain many reforms and reliefs imperative for large segments of people over 65. When senior citizens do organize, they have a great deal of political clout. "Senior Power" is surfacing across the United States as 20 million older Americans seek a better place for themselves in the nation's life.

Nearly all of these older Americans get Social Security benefits and Medicare. More than half own their homes debt-free. Moré and more and covered by pension plans developed in government, business and industry. Yet many aged —almost five million — are officially described as living in poverty, according to an article in U.S. News and World Rreport, May 24, 1971. Millions of others fear the same fate as inflation tightens on fixed incomes. In states and municipalities throughout the country where older citizens have organized, they have lately been successful in getting such programs as hot lunches for shut-ins, low-cost housing for the elderly poor and tax allowances. In 26 cities they have gotten reductions in bus fares for the aged.

One American in every 10 is 65 years of age or older. The proportion increases rapidly. Nearly one of every seven people of voting age are 65 or older. Their buying power, now 60 billion dollars a year, makes them a growing market for clothing, health aids, retirement homes, travel, recreation and countless other goods and services. Today there are 20 million Americans aged 65 or more, plus an additional 8.6 million aged 60 to 64. The 70's will bring a 20 per cent increase in these groups. Already organized Senior Citizens toppled U.S. senators and congressmen, as well as veteran legislators in state after state, who were felt to be not sufficiently concerned about the needs of the elderly.

Pennsylvania's population of senior citizens is over 10.8 per cent. Warren County has 11.8 per cent and Forest County 15.5 per cent in this category.

Everyone who knows Pat McCurdy is delighted that she has discovered her role in the wave of the future, working with and for senior citizens. Far from being a rebellious protester, she finds this day and age full of opportunities for service and excitement. She has already had quite a record as a volunteer. Most of her work has been done entirely without remuneration. She has been a Girl Scout leader. Also served at the Warren State Hospital and at a nursing home as an aide. In a Cleveland Methodist Church she worked on organization. In Warren County she participated in the Head Start program. She presently helps in a private nursery school at the YMCA.

Unlike many of today's college students, Pat says: "I'm for a universal draft. Everyone should spend two years either in non-military or military service to his country. One could then really cope with society's problems, further his education and get training for a vocation.

A host of friends wish her God-speed in her new study-and-action courses in the Senior Citizens field at the University of Michigan and Wayne State.

One of the first compliments paid Pat McCurdy is that she is one of those rare people, a "self-starter!"

Methodist Women Plan Self-Denial Sunday

Women of the United Methodist Western Pennsylvania Conference are now planning for their 1972 "Call to Prayer and Self Denial," which they consider one of their most important annual observances.

Participants are to be members of the two official women's organizations, the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild. Observance dates are to be one of the five Sundays in January, with each local church Society or Guild scheduling the Sunday of its own choice for the event.

The Call to Prayer and Self Denial is sponsored by the Women's Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions, the national policy-making body for the Society and Guild.

The theme for 1972 will be "Open Your Life" with program emphasis on prayer, deepened spiritual life, guided mission study, and a special offering to provide support for a number of United States and overseas mission projects.

United States programs involve backing young people in new forms of mission to serve people and coordinating mission schools and institutions with the lives of impoverished and isolated people, particularly in Appalachia.

Overseas programs will include nutrition projects, agriculture and food production, family planning, fundamental education, professional education of the qualified, and technical training for local occupations or self-employment.

Confirmation Class To Be Received

Thirteen young people will mark a milestone in their Christian education Sunday, Dec. 5 as they are confirmed in St. John's Lutheran Church, Pleasant Township. The ninth-graders are to be recognized by the congregation as they complete a special study of catechetical instruction begun in the seventh grade, each receiving an inscribed Bible for continuing use in their Christian education.

Those to be confirmed by the pastor, the Rev. James M. McCormick, include: Robin Lee Cornelius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Cornelius; Greg Paul Eschborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eschborn; Jeffrey Edward and Leesa Renee Gern, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gern; Debra Sue Leasure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Leasure; Karen Marie Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Olson; Robert William Orth Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orth; Derek Stanley Rapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rapp; Gale Elaine Rue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clever; Terrie Deane Schmitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmitz; Susan Louise Snavley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Snavley; Laura Jean Spadafore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Spadafore.

Clay Stanislaus Ustach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ustach, is to be received by Adult Baptism.

Members of the congregation are to greet the newly confirmed members of St. John's following the service.

Brochures Available For Catholic Speakers Bureau

Brochures concerning a Speaker's Bureau are now available in all parishes of the Diocese of Erie, according to Father John J. Hilbert, Episcopal Vicar for C.C.D. The names, addresses, phone numbers and topics of 54 speakers and four diocesan organizations are listed in the attractive brochure.

The brochure states that "The intention of this Speaker's Bureau is to offer audiences talks which will stimulate discussion and growth among the hearers. These talks will generally speak of some aspect of religion or of the growth and development of the human person."

These talks will generally run 20 to 30 minutes in length with an opportunity for questions and comments from the audience. The opinions of the speakers are his or her own.

These speakers are available to any group, church-related or not. A standard fee of $25 is asked for each talk.

The speakers should be contacted personally to arrange for their services. Each speaker's mailing address and phone number is listed in the brochure.

Any further information regarding the Speaker's Bureau may be addressed to Father John J. Hilbert, Box 716, Erie, Pa. 16512.

Unique Fund Raising Project Planned

In conjunction with the planned summer work trip of the First-Salem United-Methodist Church Youth Fellowship, the youth are engaging in a Christmas fund raising project. The young people of the church, along with their adult advisors, are planning to deliver Christmas cards in Warren, North Warren and Pleasant Township. They are hoping as many as can will help them.

People willing to help are asked to get their cards to the church or parsonage, next to the church at 4 S. Marion st. on or before December 22, or if the church office is called, arrangements will be made to pick the cards up.

There are to be several delivery days between now and Christmas. The process is simple— the cards are brought to the church and postage paid.

The cards are then to be hand-delivered anywhere in Warren, North Warren and Pleasant Township. The young people delivering the cards will offer a cheerful Christmas greeting at each home where they stop.

The youth group hopes to deliver 5,000 cards.

DEAR HELOISE:

Need something different to serve over ice cream or pudding?

I use the canned pie fillings that need no preparation. (You can warm them up a little for added pazazz!)

Peach, strawberry and pineapple are surprisingly good. Real favorites with my family.

Try it. Simply out of this world.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am driving 30 miles to mail this letter. I'd die if anyone knew about my problem.

I have been married seven months and my husband has never seen me without makeup. I do my face twice a day—once at noon and again before I go to bed at night. It takes me about 40 minutes—including hair-combing. I just learned that I am pregnant and I'm very excited about it. I realize, however, that with a brand new baby I won't have so much free time. Also I admit I am getting awfully tired playing the role of the 24-hour beauty. It's darned exhausting.

My problem is, Ann, I look like a totally different person with my makeup off. I hate for my husband to see how plain I really am. Do you have any advice for me?—Afraid to Unmask

Dear Afraid: Something is drastically wrong with your marriage if you are so dependent on makeup that you are afraid to face your husband without it. Also, something is drastically wrong with your makeup if it makes you look like a different person.

I hope the new baby will give you the confidence you need to remove your makeup at night and leave it off until or unless you are going somewhere. Also, I suggest that you get professional counseling on the use of makeup. Cosmetics should help to accentuate your best features instead of making you look like a different person.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We've been married 10 years and have four children. The problem is my parents. They have been coming to our house every Sunday for the last two years when we moved to this neighborhood. My mother takes over the conversation and always manages to get into an argument with my husband. He told me the other day that he is sick of it and I don't blame him.

Gerry works hard six davs a week and Sunday is the only day he can relax and enjoy his family. Is it fair that we have to have my folks here every single Sunday? How can I get the message across without driving them away forever?—Temple, Texas Woes

Dear Temp: Make plans now for next Sunday. Inform your mother that you'll be away. Two weeks later—the same. Two weeks after that get on a new footing—"We'll let you know, etc." Your Sundays will never be your own unless you break the cycle. It's a mistake to let anyone assume they have a weekly invitation unless you really want them that often. Yeah—this goes for parents, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: O.K. So a wife is supposed to forgive her husband who cheats in Vietnam. Ann Landers says so. But what about the woman's "physical needs" as you put it. While her soldier husband is finding companionship and solace overseas what is SHE supposed to do? And don't give me that old mid-Victorian eyewash about a man's needs being greater than a woman's. You know better. The question is this: If she does likewise, is she to be forgiven too? A yes or a no will do. —The Scarlet Letter

Dear Scarlet: The answer is yes. Thanks for making my Saturday work easy.

Confidential to Marijuana Beat: Sorry, you're wrong. Gene Krupa, one of the greatest drummers of all time said pot did nothing for his musical ability—it only loused him up.

Is Alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism—Hope And Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Y'ville 1st U.M. Church Plans Secret Pal Sunday

Coffee and donuts are to be served Sunday morning when the Christian Service Class of the Youngsville First United Methodist Church observes "Secret Pal Sunday". The session is to begin at 9:30 a.m. with the mini-late breakfast, to which members and guests are invited to bring their entire families.

The class is to celebrate its 20th anniversary in early Fall, 1972 with a dinner and appropriate program at Olmsted Manor, Ludlow. In preparation, an attendance contest has been launched with the class divided into four teams with a balloon race "Around the World in 52 Weeks" as the theme. Members have chosen "Secret Pals" from among prospects of the class to encourage their attendance. The inviters will remain anonymous until their guests attend their first session.

Sunday's Sunday School discussion session will be drawn from the International Lessons based on Luke 1:1-4 and Acts 1: 1-5 and will introduce a 13-week study on the Gospel of Luke. The teachers will be on the firing line to answer questions about the subject posed by the class members. Sunday's subject is to be "Luke Tells the Good News."

Dry House Puts Piano Out Of Tune

Here is a quickie quiz: What helps keep a piano in tune during the dry winter months and at the same time cuts down on heating costs? The answer: A humidifier!

Professional piano tuners say that the lack of humidification will cause a piano to go out of tune. Within a few years, they say, a normal piano will be impossible to tune at all.

Proper intonation can only be achieved by restoring the moisture that is needed for the wooden keys in the piano. The most practical and economical way to achieve the proper moisture level in the home is with a portable humidifier.

The humidifier, in addition to keeping the piano in tune, also helps to cut down the cost of heating.

Home comfort experts point out that a house heated at 72 degrees with a relative humidity of 45 per cent feels as warm and comfortable as a house heated at 76 degrees with only 10 per cent relative humidity.

SPORTS ON TV

SATURDAY

FOOTBALL—NCAA Football on Ch. 7 at 12:45 p.m. will feature the Penn State Nittany Lions, who are undefeated this season and headed for the Cotton Bowl, playing the Tennessee Volunteers, who will be playing in the Liberty Bowl.

Presented on the last show of the season of Grambling College Highlights on Ch. 2 at 2 p.m. will be tapes of the Grambling-California State game, played Nov 27.

Pro football will be seen on Chs. 2, 6 and 12 at 4 p.m. as the New York Jets, who now have Joe Namath back as QB, will meet the Dallas Cowboys.

WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS —This week's program on Ch. 7 at 5 p.m. will feature: the International Grand Prix Motocross Motorcycle Championship from Elsinore, Cal.; and the 12th World Water Ski Championships from Spain.

BASKETBALL —NBA Basketball will be presented on Ch. 4 at 8 p.m. when the Buffalo Braves will face the New York Knickerbockers.

SUNDAY

FOOTBALL —Chs. 4, 10 and 35 will televise the game between the New York Giants and the Washington Redskins at 1 p.m.

The Cincinnati Bengals will meet the Cleveland Browns at 1 p.m. The game will be seen on Ch. 12.

The Buffalo Bills, who won their first game of the season last week, will face a mighty challenge, when they play the Baltimore Colts, who devastated Oakland last week. The game will be seen on Ch. 2 at 2 p.m.

Also at 2 p.m. Ch. 6 will televise the game between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Houston Oilers.

The second game of a doubleheader will be seen on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 4 p.m. when the New Orleans Saints will play the Los Angeles Rams.

MONDAY

FOOTBALL —ABC Monday Night Football on Ch. 7 at 9 p.m. will feature what should prove to be a very exciting game, when the Kansas City Chiefs, second in their division, will play the San Francisco 49ers, who are presently first in their division.

THURSDAY

HOCKEY —NHL Hockey will be seen on Ch. 7 at 8 p.m. when the Chicago Black Hawks will play the Buffalo Sabres.

WEEKEND THEATER MOVIES

Library Theater: "The Omega Man," Charlton Heston, Rosalind Cash, 7:20 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday Matinee: "The Man Called Flintstone" at 2 p.m. and "Hey, There It's Yogi bear," at 3:30 p.m.

Palace: "The Touch," Elliott Gould, Bibi Andersson, 5:00, 7:10 and 9:20 p.m. Saturday and Sunday Matinee: "Santa and the Three Bears," shown at 2 p.m. only.

Wintergarden Theater: "Desperate Characters," Shirley MacLaine, Kenneth Morse, 3:05, 5:15, 7:20 and 9:30 p.m.

THE FLINTSTONES

"The Man Called Flintstone," new full-length animated feature produced by Hanna-Barbera for Columbia Pictures release in color, stars Fred Flintstone, the Stone Age hero of television and the comics. The Flintstones can be seen today and Sunday at the Library Theater. Show time is 2 p. m.

SATURDAY

The nation gets a chance to hear Archie's views on President Nixon's economic policy when Archie is interviewed by a CBS news reporter on All In the Family at 8:00 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. Archie is on cloud nine over his impending television debut, and not even Mike's barbs can bring him down, but a broken TV set manages to take the wind out of his sails.

ESP and hypnosis are the dramatic ingredients in "The Devil and Mrs. Sarah," to be presented on the ABC Movie of the Weekend at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 7. The TV-movie stars Gene Barry as a captured outlaw who is counting on his strange power over a woman to help him make his escape.

George Peppard and Diana Muldaur star in "One More Train to Rob," a Western set in California in the 1880's, to be featured on NBC Saturday Night at the Movies at 9:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. A train robber who is framed into prison, seeks his partners for his share of the loot after being released.

A large dose of nerve gas will strike the populace unless the IMF can stop a psychotic, played by Christopher George on Mission Impossible on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 10:00 p.m. Also featured in this show is decathlon great Rafer Johnson.

Danny's marked for murder at his ramshackle country cottage on The Persuaders at 10:00 p.m. on Ch. 7. Seems a ruthless squire has been using the spot to smuggle counterfeit currency out of England.

SUNDAY

Jimmy Durante narrates the cartoon adventures of the snowman who "came to life one day" on Frosty the Snowman at 7:30 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. However, Frosty and the children who made him, soon find out that life isn't all fun.

The CBS Sunday Night Movie on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 8:00 p.m. will present Part II of "The Great Race" starring Jack Lemmon, Tony Curtis and Natalie Wood. The story concerns The Great Leslie and dastardly Professor Fate, involved in a car race from New York to Paris in 1908. A highlight this week includes a wild custard-pie battle.

Bonanza on Chs. 2, 6 and 12 at 9:00 p.m. will feature a kidnap drama entitled "The Rattlesnake Brigade." The story centers on the agony of four men—including Ben—whose children are trapped aboard a wagon driven by an escaped murderer.

Clips from John Ford's Westerns are the gems in this tribute to the veteran director on The American West of John Ford, a special to be televised at 9:30 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. His affection for the legends of the West shine through in scenes from "Stagecoach" and "Three Bad Men." Henry Fonda, Jimmy Stewart and John Wayne swap anecdotes with him as they narrate the films, many of which they appeared in.

Three people with a drinking problem become patients of Dr. Paul Hunter (David Hartman) in an experimental program to learn causes of alcoholism on The Bold Ones at 10:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12.

A Family Entertainment Special entitled "Christmas Is" will be seen on Ch. 2 at 7:30 p.m. It tells the story of a young school-boy who is unhappy with his role in the annual Christmas play. He is transported through a flight of fantasy into the world of the Nativity where he learns the true meaning of Christmas.

The eighth annual telecast of Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, the animated musical special, will be featured at 8:00 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. Burl Ives provides the off-camera voice of Sam the Snowman, who sings and tells the story of a shy buck with a shiny nose who becomes a hero when a blizzard threatens to cancel Christmas.

TUESDAY

Dr. Seuss's delightful Christmas Story, How the Grinch Stole Christmas, will be seen at 7:30 p.m. on Chs. 10 and 35. Who-ville is the home of the Whos, whimsical animal-like creatures who love Christmas. However, to the North of Who-ville, lives the Grinch, who has an evil scheme to steal Christmas.

A Peanuts Special will be featured on Chs. 10 and 35 at 8:00 p.m. "A Charlie Brown Christmas" has the little gang looking forward to the presents they'll get—and Charlie is railing about the holiday's commercialism.

WEDNESDAY

The McMillans (Rock Hudson and Susan Saint James) investigate a professional football team when an autographed ball points to murder in "Death Is a Seven Point Favorite," to be televised on NBC Mystery Movie at 8:30 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. Their friend, Bill Benton, quarterback of the team is the suspect.

Lung cancer is the villain in "Conspiracy" on Medical Center, at 9 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35. Suzanne Pleshette stars as the fearful victim determined to keep her nightmare as a secret from the man she loves, because she is frightened he won't marry her if he finds out.

THURSDAY

Cold-weather comedy sketches and blackouts, seasonal songs and a major musical production number in which a curriet and ives-like illustration come to life highlight Perry Como's Winter Show on Chs. 2, 6 and 12 at 8:00 p.m. Mitzi Gaynor, comedian Art Carney and the Establishment singing group join Perry Como in the special.

Appointment with Destiny on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 8:00 p.m. will present "The Plot to Murder Hitler." Newsreels and simulated news footage trace plots to overthrow or kill Hitler. Attempts were made on his life in 1938, 1943, and twice in 1944. James Mason narrates this production, filmed in Germany.

FRIDAY

A special on Ch. 4 at 8:30 p.m., The Seven Seas, will feature a montage of Pacific contrasts: fur seals and poisonous sea creatures; salmon fishing in the Vering Straits and pearl diving in tropical waters; and reptiles of the Galapagos, Hawaii beaches and Austrailia.

An underworld drama written by a convict, E. Richard Johnson, who is doing time for robbery-murder at Minnesota State Prison will be featured on the CBS Friday Night Movie at 9:30 p.m. on Chs. 4, 10 and 35, "Mongo's Back in Town"

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL

Kansas City Chiefs' quarterback Len Dawson looks downfield as he prepares to pass. Dawson, the Chiefs' Most Valuable Player in 1969 and 1970, has passed for more than 20,000 yards during his professional career. The leading passer in the AFL in 1962, '64, '66 and '68 will pilot the Chiefs against the San Francisco 49ers on the ABC Television Network's "NFL Monday Night Football" series Monday, Dec. 6, 9 p.m. Frank Gifford, Don Meredith and Howard Cosell will report the game, live, from Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Air Force senior fullback Kevin Brennan of Chicago is a nephew of former Notre Dame halfback Johnny Lattner, 1953 Heisman Trophy winner.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1971

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)— Your verve and enthusiasm can promote better conditions because you will give others a lift—and all will gain. Be dispassionate in making decisions, objective in reasoning.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)— Venus influences somewhat adverse. You have coped with this situation before. Emphasize your charm, enthusiasm, and stick-to-itiveness and you can offset unfriendly aspects.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Don't let your style of procedure become cramped, or you could encounter snags, delays, a confining outlook. Heartily launch and pursue a constructive program.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)— You may not reach the peak of your expectations, but if you keep things going and have faith, you will achieve in the long run. Take clever short cuts; trim out nonessentials.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)— Dedication to obligations will pay big dividends, especially when you have resisted the temptation to veer off, let things go. Invention, originality, sociability stimulated.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)— This day's success is in YOUR hands. Don't wait for leads; seek hidden advantages. They're there for the taking. Serenely, confidently does it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)— Good planetary influences. A novel twist, a new approach to a non-moving project could spark fresh interest, relieve the monotony of details. Winnings for good efforts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)—Your work will not look so onerous when you know for certain that it's a means to an end. Handle small tasks as efficiently and enthusiastically as the larger ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)— Iron out kinks in your plans and tactics. You should be able to handle and interpret situations ably now. In aiming for goals, however, don't overreach.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)— Your planetary influences more auspicious than otherwise but you will have to watch your step nonetheless. Avoid friction. Some tension likely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— Not much planetary help here. How the day turns out will be largely up to yourself. Use your brains and wits to bring out the effective and eliminate the useless.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)— Your Neptune, excellently placed, encourages lofty ambitions, stimulates your talents. You should do well now.

MANY DRINK SCOTCH

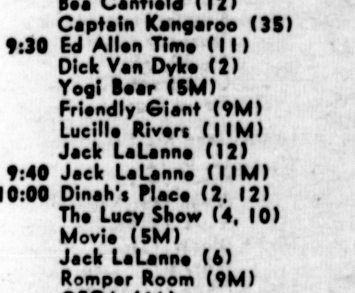

LONDON (AP) — Scotch whisky exports are expected to rise by between 4.4 and 5.6 per cent a year to reach perhaps as much as 85.9 million gallons a year by 1976, says an analysis prepared by Economic Associates Ltd.

It said 72.5 million gallons were drunk around the world in 1970. That's equal to 630 million standard bottles.

Population Profile

America's population profile is increasingly that of young, married, affluent suburbanites who are mostly on the move, following job and other economic opportunities from one section of the country to another. Median age today, according to the most recent census, is 28 meaning that every other person in the U.S. is under the age of 28. However, the largest income earning group still consists of people between the ages of 35, and 64. Largest group in total numbers is comprised of those under 15.

Educational TV Schedule

SATURDAY

Washington columnists Rowland Evans, Jr. and Robert D. Novak discuss their book "Nixon in the White House: The Frustration of Power" on Firing Line at 3:00 p.m. One reviewer praised their incisive reporting on the President's domestic policies.

Satire, great music and a profile of a stripper will be featured on The Great American Dream Machine at 8:00 p.m. Other features will be: a tape on Philadelphia mayor-elect Frank Rizzo; a water bed sketch with Marshall Efron and Lee Meredith; a talk with Colts linebacker Mike Curtis and Andy Rodney on the image in politics.

Puppets and masked actors perform in this presentation by the Bread and Puppet Theatre on Hollywood Television Theatre at 10:00 p.m. You'll see three dramatic vignettes that leave room for personal intrepretation. The plays: an ironic story about a monarch; a bizarre and puzzling tale called "The Dead Man Rises"; and an antiwar drama about a man who says good-by to his mother.

SUNDAY

Civilization at 7:00 p.m. will present "The Smile of Reason." Kenneth Clark traces the Age of Enlightenment from its birth in 18th-century Parisian literary salons to its influence on the founding fathers of America. Cameras survey the paintings of Moreau le Jeune and Chardin; the palaces of Versailles; and Monticello.

"The Conservatives and Mr. Nixon" will be featured on Firing Line at 8:00 p.m. Discussion focuses on conservative opposition to the wage-price freeze, the UN admission of Red China and a possible conservative anti-Nixon movement in 1972.

In chapter 2 of Tolstoy's "Resurrection" on Masterpiece Theatre at 9:00 p.m., flashbacks interwoven with the murder trial recall Maslova's seduction and abandonment by an arrogant prince who now sits on her jury.

A special entitled Walt Harper at Falling Water will be seen at 10:00 p.m. The sound of jazz is heard at one of America's architectural landmarks, the home of Frank Lloyd Wright, as the Walt Harper sextet plays.

MONDAY

PBS Special of the Week will present "Polopoly" at 8:00 p.m. PBS enters the TV newsmagazine arena with features on major campaign issues in 1972: crime, with films on self-defense courses for women in Albuquerque; a live remote from Minnestoa State prison—four convicts and a penal official in a rap session; a live discussion on the wage-price freeze with residents of Tennessee; and a remote from a shopping mall in the newly-created town of Columbia, Md.

"The Coming Asunder of Jimmy Bright," by Emmy-winner playwright Loring Mandel will be presented on All About Welfare at 9:30 p.m. The drama centers on a sensitive social worker whose job and personal life are bringing him to the breaking point.

TUESDAY

"Should Congress Limit the President's War Powers?" will be discussed on The Advocates at 8:30 p.m. Sen. Jacob Javits says yes, and he has introduced a bill that lists rules governing Presidential troop commitments. Eugene Rostow, former undersecretary of state says no, as he doesn't believe that legislation can foresee crises demanding swift troop deployment.

"Minister for Black Souls" spreads the gospel of Islamic spokesman Louis Farrakhan on Black Journal at 10:30 p.m. The dynamic minister addresses a Brooklyn high school class and preaches to crowds near his Harlem mosque.

WEDNESDAY

TV Quarterbacks at 7:30 p.m. will feature tapes from the Penn State-Tennessee game, played on Saturday. Interviews and discussions with coach Joe Paterno are also featured.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

VENDING MACHINES

Automatic vending machines have many built-in advantages that can be wiped out if the food is not fresh and those who maintain the units are careless. A properly serviced machine protests the user against dirt, insects, sneezes and unnecessary handling of foods. Fortunately, 50 states are required to follow specific standards set by the vending code of the United States public health service. Basically, the safety of convenience foods involves a chain of sanitation. These precautions start at the source of supply, and depend upon conditions during storage, preparation, packaging, transportation, and vending.

Clean machines vend quality products. The health of the routeman is as important as the food offered. Neatly pressed uniforms and scrupulously clean hands are a must when handling cups and servicing these machines. An annual chest X-ray protects the routeman and others. Areas in which these machines are located should be adequately lighted and have trash containers with self-closing lids.

According to the vending code, cold perishables should be stored at 45 degrees Fahrenheit (or below) Hot foods require 140 degrees F (or above) and frozen items keep best at zero Fahrenheit. Vending equipment should be constructed so that it can be taken apart, washed, sanitized and dried properly. Federally inspected meats and poultry prevent poisoning from contaminated items. Individually wrapped pastries packed in clean boxes with a protective covering, usually come from reliable bakeries.

The most dangerous concoctions are snacks or other edibles that are mixtures of several ingredients, high in moisture content and foods requiring considerable handling during preparation. Bacteria thrive in low salt, creamy foods, such as ham, chicken or turkey salads, cream pies, potato and macaroni salad and puddings. Staph and other germs can't multiply in a cold environment. The critters are great hitchhikers—they get into foods via a sneeze, cough, hands, flies and rats.

It is well to remember that contaminated foods may look and smell all right—tainted foods do not always have a bad odor or change in color.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

ASPIRIN FOR CHILDREN

Mrs. D.F.M. writes: My daughter gives her child aspirin for every little cold and fever. What do you think of this practice?

REPLY

No harm, if she knows that the child's fever is caused by a common cold and not by sinusitis, pneumonia, or an ear infection. This is the main objection to home treatment.

PAINFUL JOINTS

B. writes: Could anemia cause aching joints in various parts of the body?

REPLY

No Arthritis is a more logical cause for the manifestation. Anemia may coexist with an arthritic condition, but it is not responsible for the joint pain.

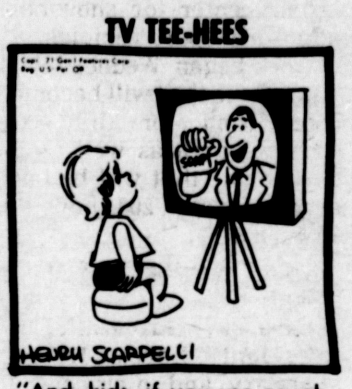

BOILS AND SOILS

T.O.H. writes: Is there anything in the soil that would cause a child to have boils?

REPLY

Yes—bacteria. Dirt and uncleanliness are common causes of boils and other staphylococcal skin infections.

MT. JEWETT SITE TO HOST RACES

Winter-Summer Recreation Complex Opening

By BOB ROGGE

A year-round recreation site is being prepared at Mt. Jewett that will feature a 400-site camping area, a 25-acre parking lot a 7-acre pond and a one-half mile oval track to be used summer and winter for auto and snowmobile racing.

Donald Warren, president of Snow-Dome, Inc., said the seven-man corporation expects to spend at least one half million dollars on development over the next four years and added that the full payroll may exceed $100,000 annually.

Situated just east of Mt. Jewett on U.S. 6, the 105-acre site was once the Mt. Jewett Airport and the existing hangar has been completely renovated, inside and out. New exterior sheathing has been applied, a concrete floor poured and provisions are already being placed for a snack bar, rest rooms, and a servicing and repair center for snowmobiles and other sport vehicles.

Work began Wednesday on a 7-acre lake that will become the focal point for the 400-site camping area as well as for a boy's camp that will be built to accommodate 200 boys, said Warren.

Other members of the corporation are: Bill Rocca, treasurer; Hal Rubel, vice president, Leroy Harriger, secretary and members John Dignan, Andy Jaroz Sr. and Andy Jaroz Jr.

Work on the comprehensive recreation site began in August, said the president and the first snowmobile race will be held on Dec. 11 and 12.

U.S. Snowmobile Association sanctioned races will be held there on Feb. 26 and 27 with live television coverage from Channel 10, Altoona. Other snowmobile races are slated for Jan. 2, 16 and 30 and Feb. 13.

The boys' camp is planned for completion in 1973 and Warren said professional counsellors will be employed during the summer season.

He added that the 400-site camping area for trailers and tents will be complete with toilet facilities, showers and laundry rooms.

During the coming summer months, the group plans to stage endurance races on the half-mile oval dirt track for autos and motorcycles. The track is engineered for high speeds with steeply banked turns.

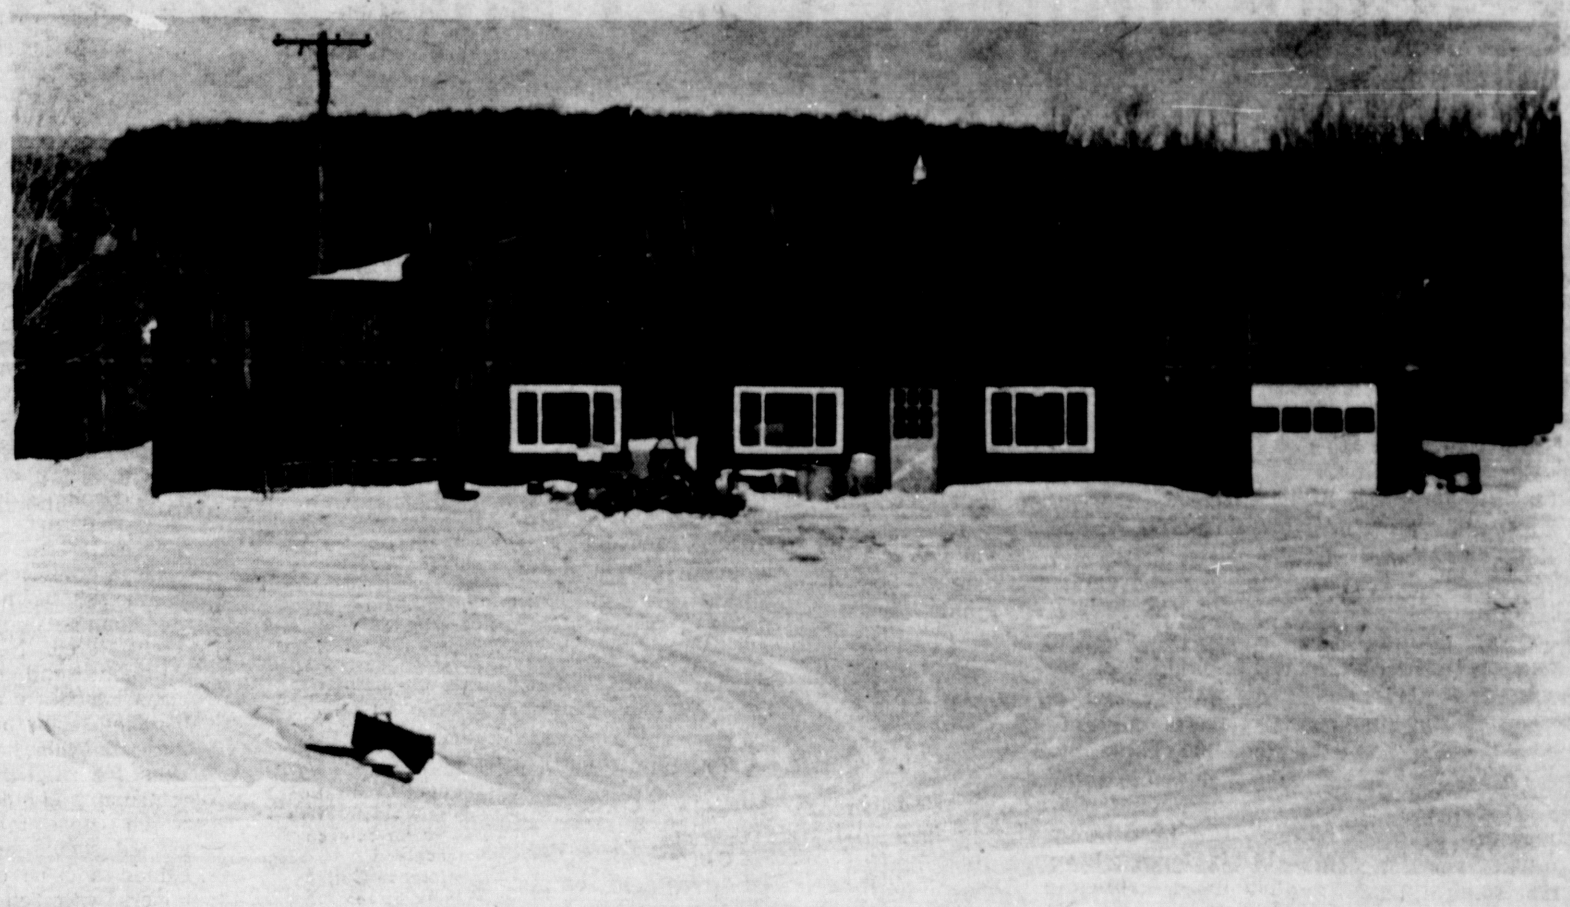

A two-story judges stand has been built at the track and will be equipped with a public address system and for the opening snowmobile races, at least, will be linked with station WKZA in Kane.

The track will be the highest race circuit in the state for it sits at 2,330 feet above sea level, according to the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey map.

Long-range planning, according to Warren, includes provisions for a large motel on the site.

Warren added for snomobile racing fans that all races would be run under USSA rules with prizes equaling 100 per cent of entry fees. He said that races will start at 1 p.m. sharp each day on the race calendar. There will be classes for stock and modified machines as well as for junior boys and girls. Trophies will be awarded to the latter class winners, Warren added.

The corporation is also busy preparing some 30 miles of snowmobile trails that will reach to Clermont and Wilcox. Warren said the trails would be ready by the first of the year.

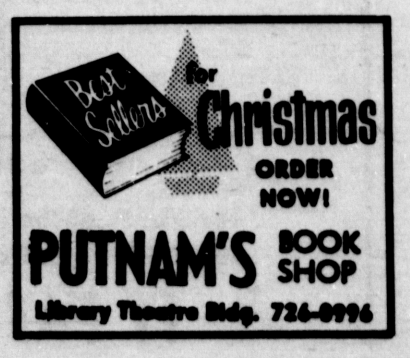

HOME OF SNOW-DOME

This completely renovated hangar building at the old Mt. Jewett Airport is the center of activity at Snow-Dome, Inc., a year-round recreation site now under construction just east of that borough on US 6. The building has been completely sheathed outside, a concrete floor has been poured and provisions are being installed for a snack bar, rest rooms and a servicing center for snowmobiles and other recreational vehicles. It sits on a 105-acre site that will eventually include camp sites, a seven-acre lake and other outdoor recreational facilities. (Photo by Rogge)

JUDGES' STAND AT TRACK

This two-story judge's stand will be equipped with a public address system and, on race days, hooked up with a local radio station for live broadcasts of the events. The half-time oval dirt track will be the site for snowmobile races in the winter and for auto and motorcycle racing in the summer months.

THE COOK'S CORNER

Rally 'Round The Punch Bowl

By NATALIE WILLIAMS

In 13th century England, the Wassail Bowl (a mixture of ale, sugar, spices, and bits of toast) was the center of activity during Saxon holiday celebrations. The word "wassail" comes from "waes haeil" which means "be in health." Traditionally, the bowl of ale was passed from hand to hand while guests wished each other good health.

Today the punch bowl has replaced the Wassail Bowl as the center of activity. And, though most "bowls" aren't made with spiced ale, the spirit with which the punch is sipped is still the same.

Brighten your holiday buffet or open house with the merriest punches around. It's a lot easier than setting up a bar. And punch bowls are so beautiful, they deserve more attention than they ordinarily get.

Now there are punches, both non-alcoholic and otherwise...and then there are punches with a punch. We'll try to run the gamut here and let you take your choice.

If you'd like to try the traditional Wassail Bowl, here's two recipes that are as close as we can come.

The first is hot spiced beer or ale. Core 12 small apples and fill each with 1 tsp. brown sugar. Place in baking pan and cover bottom with ⅛ inch water. Bake at 350 for 30 min. Combine 1 cup sugar, 1 tsp. cinnamon, ½ tsp. each ginger and nutmeg in 4-qt. saucepan. Add 1-½ cups orange juice, 1-½ cups cranberry juice and 2 qts. beer or ale. Heat, but do not boil, 15 min. To serve, pour mixture into punch bowl and float baked apples on top. Makes 12 servings.

The second uses sweet or hard cider (sold inexpensively at your local State Store). Heat together 1 gallon sweet or hard cider, ten 2-inch sticks cinnamon, 1 tbsp. allspice, ½ cup fresh lemon juice, 2 cups sugar, until mixture comes to a boil. Simmer 15 min. Add 1 bottle applejack or Calvados and serve hot. The bowl may be decorated with slices of soft roasted or baked apples or with bite-size chunks of toasted French bread. Makes about 25 servings.

If you'd like something less cloyingly sweet than eggnog, try Posset, a variation also of an ancient recipe. Combine 1 qt. milk, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups sherry and heat until warm but not hot. Fold in ½ pt. heavy cream, whipped, and sprinkle with nutmeg. Can be served warm or cold. Makes about 12 cups.

If you prefer the rich, full-bodied eggnog for the holidays, here's the recipe we prefer. Separate 6 eggs and beat yolks well, adding ½ cup sugar gradually. Add ½ cup Jamaica rum while beating, then 1 pt. brandy, rye or bourbon. Add 2 tsp. vanilla and a pinch of nutmeg. Chill several hours, adding 3 cups heavy cream and 1 pt. milk from time to time and stirring. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold half into mixture. Add 3 tbsp. more sugar to remaining egg whites and beat until very stiff. Spread on top of eggnog and swirl. Sprinkle with nutmeg. About 25 servings.

There's always the easy way out, of course. You can add your favorite brand of liquor to any of the non-alcoholic dairy eggnogs you'll find in grocery cases...but, really, that is being lazy.

Which brings up a point from one of our favorite authors, Father Robert Farrar Capon of "The Supper of the Lamb" fame. If you serve punch at all, make sure you serve one with real muscle. There is nothing worse than trying to launch a party on a gallon of seltzer and a fifth of gin.

Herewith his recipe for Fish House Punch, the original iron fish in the velvet glove—for 50 persons, all at once. Put large chunks of ice in the biggest punch bowl you can find. Add 1-½ cups plain sugar syrup (stir 1-½ cups sugar and 1-½ cups water over heat until sugar is dissolved; bring to boil and boil 7 min. without stirring, cool), 1-½ cups lime juice, 1-½ bottles dark Jamaica rum, 1 bottle Cognac, 1 cup peach brandy; stir well and add 4 bottles of good domestic Champagne. Serve and stand back.

Everything but the Champagne, he notes, can be mixed beforehand and stored in a suitable jug until the last minute.

For "a slightly shirtier party" he suggests Bowle. Put a quart of hulled strawberries in a bowl, sprinkle on 1 cup sugar and pour in 1 cup good Cognac. Mix well, cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate overnight. Chill 3 bottles of good May Wine—or Moselle or Rhine—and add to the strawberry mixture. Put in no ice at all. Stir and serve with a few berries in each glass.

Now here's a pretty Yuletide Punch for the holidays which is simple to make. This can be served either hot or cold. Combine one 46-oz. can V-8 juice, chilled, 1 cup cranberry juice, chilled, 1 cup rose wine, chilled 1 tbsp. lime juice. Makes 8-12 servings; double for more. For added flair, if you're serving it cold, adorn the punch bowl with an ice "wreath" studded with pineapple chunks and lime slices.

To make this ice ring, arrange a single layer of pineapple and lime slices in ring mold; add water just to cover fruit. Freeze. Fill to brim with water; freeze until solid. Unmold ice ring and float in punch.

If you want an easy-to-make non-alcoholic punch, try this one which is good any time of the year, really, even as a wedding punch. Combine and mix 2 cups cold strong tea, 4 cups chilled pineapple juice, 2 cans (6 oz. each) frozen orange juice concentrate, 4 tbsp. lemon juice, 2 tbsp. Angostura bitters, 1 bottle (28 oz.) sparkling water. Pour into punch bowl. Garnish with thin, whole orange slices. Add ice cubes, if desired—and if so, preferably decorated (freeze fruits of your choice in ice cube trays). Serves 24.

Here's another interesting one along the same lines. Reconstitute 1 can each (6 oz.) frozen grape juice and frozen orange juice, add ½ cup lemon juice and pour over ice cubes or block of ice in punch bowl. Add 1 bottle (28 oz.) sparkling water, 2 tbsp. bitters, lemon slices. If a sweeter punch is desired, ½ cup sugar syrup may be added before the sparkling water.

If you'd like to serve a Frosty Sherbet Punch, try this one. Chill 3 cans (large) each orange-grapefruit juice, pineapple juice, apricot nectar, 3 qts. ginger ale. Empty one can of each juice and one quart of ginger ale into punch bowl. Scoop 1 qt. lime sherbet into bowl. Spoon the liquid over the sherbet until partly melted. Serve. When supply runs low, repeat the process adding another unit of each ingredient. You'll need 3 qts. lime sherbet if you have a large crowd and need about three gallons.

For a cold winter holiday affair, non-alcoholic, here's another one. Hot Calypso Cider. Heat 2 qts. cider or apple juice with ¼ cup brown or maple sugar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add 3 orange slices and 3 lemon slices. Let simmer 10 min. Add 2 tbsp. Angostura bitters. Stir and serve. Makes about 2 qts.

This one has a bit of wine and is delightful for those who do not wish to overindulge. Sherry Wassail. Heat 3 cans or bottles of apple juice to simmering; add 4 bottles sweet sherry, ¼ cup sugar, 1 lemon thinly sliced, 2 sticks cinnamon, 10 whole cloves, 6 whole allspice, ¾ tsp. nutmeg, ¾ tsp. ginger, ¼ tsp. mace, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cover and heat for several minutes (do not let boil). Put 12 small baked apples in bottom of a warmed punch bowl and strain the apple juice mixture into it. Makes about 6 quarts. (Be sure to provide spoons for eating the apples.)

Here's a beautiful Rum Fruit Punch for those who wish something heartier. Slice and dice ½ pineapple, place in large pitcher with ¾ cup sugar syrup (a cup sugar, 1/3 cup water—boil few minutes, cool), 1 cup lemon juice, 1½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice and 1½ bottles Jamaica rum; if desired, add 3 oz. peach brandy. Chill in refrigerator at least two hours. To serve, pour over block of ice in punch bowl, add 2 qts. sparkling water and 1 pint of sliced strawberries.

For the small fry, for a holiday party, how about Purple Cow Punch: Chill well 2 qts. bottles or cartons chocolate milk and 1 large bottle black raspberry soda. At serving time, combine all ingredients in a punch bowl, add 4 tsp. bitters. Sprinkle chocolate sprinkles on top if desires. Make about 17 servings.

Or for a teenage crowd, you might combine 1 can each (6 oz.) frozen orange juice, frozen lemonade, 3 cups water. Add 1 tbsp. bitters to pick up flavor. Add large bottle of ginger ale and serve iced. Lemon juice may be added for a tarter flavor. Makes about 2 qts.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE: Spiritual healing is based on an understanding of God and His creation, according to the Bible Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science church services Sunday.

The healing by Christ Jesus of the man, "which had an infirmity thirty and eight years" is included in the Bible readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled GOD THE ONLY CAUSE AND CREATOR.

Commentary from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Physical causation was put aside from first to last by this original man, Jesus. He knew that the divine Principle, Love, creates and governs all that is real."

Everyone is welcome at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 312 Market Street, Warren. Services begin at 11 a.m.

MIND OVER MATTER

SKIPTON, Md. (AP) — George William Fluharty doesn't smoke or drink, but he credits his 100 years more to a clear conscience than good habits.

"You'd see a big improvement in young people if they'd just follow their conscience," said Fluharty, who was born in 1871.

"They won't go wrong if they just listen to what their minds tell them," he said.

Grace United Methodist Church

Suffering Servant

Wayne B. Price
Grace United Methodist Church

"Here is my servant, whom I uphold,
my chosen one in whom I delight,
I have bestowed my spirit upon him,
and he will make justice shine on the nations.
He will not call out or lift his voice high...
He will not break a bruised reed...
He will make justice shine on every race..."
(Isaiah 42:1-4)+

"He grew up before the Lord like a young plant...
he had no beauty...
his form, disfigured, lost all the likeness of a man...
He was despised, he shrank from the sight of men...
we held him of no account..
Yet on himself he bore our sufferings...
he was pierced for our transgressions,
tortured for our iniquities;
the chastisement he bore is health for us and by his scourging we are healed.
...the Lord laid upon him
the guilt of us all.
He was afflicted...
he was led like a sheep to the slaughter...
Without protection, without justice, he was taken away;
...he was cut off from the world of living men...
He was assigned a grave with the wicked...
though he had done no violence and spoken no word of treachery.
Yet the Lord took thought for his tortured servant and healed him...
and in his hand the Lord's cause shall prosper.
After all his pains...he shall be fully vindicated;
so shall he, my servant, vindicate many,
himself bearing the penalty of their guilt.
Therefore I will allot him a portion with the great,
and he shall share the spoil with the mighty... because he bore the sin of many and interceded for their transgressions."
(Isaiah 53)+

Such is the haunting prophecy of Isaiah for the Suffering Servant. Who was he? What was his name? Where shall we find him? Has he come or do we look for him?

John wrote: "So the Word became flesh, he came to dwell among us, and we saw his glory, such glory as befits the Father's only Son, full of grace and truth." (John 1:14)+

God said: "This is my Son, my Beloved, on whom my favor rests; listen to him." (Matthew 17:5)+

Hunter Or Warrior?

It was not until the Pleistocene Epoch that modern man began his rapid development. It was in the twilight of the Ice Age —during the Wurm glaciation—that Cro-Magnon man wandered into Europe. This migration began about 25,000 years ago.

Cro-Magnon man, if dressed in today's fashion, might have looked much like a modern European. But the landscape over which he roamed bore little resemblance to today's terrain. The North Sea was a meadow. The English channel was dry land. Ice covered much of northern Europe. And the wooly mammoth, giant cave bear, wooly rhinoceros, reindeer and other Ice Age animals were indigenous to France and northern Spain.

When Cro-Magnon man entered Europe he was a primitive hunter, with no knowledge of agriculture. What few possessions he might have possessed he carried on his person. No dog accompanied him on the hunt. He had not learned to domesticate animals and had no beasts of burden. The bow and arrow had not yet been invented. The game he killed was roasted over hot coals.

His large, well proportioned brain indicated that he was capable of accomplishing great things, but his ancestors had not gone through the long stages of trial and error that are necessary to lift a people from savagery to a state of civilization. By our standards he was still a savage. He was a killer, but not a wholesale killer of his own kind. He was a mighty hunter—not a warrior.

He was a territorial animal only in the broad sense that all animals are. But he entertained no grandiose schemes of conquest. There was room for all the small bands of Cro-Magnon people to wander over in their endless search for game. And in the Ice Age game was plentiful. But making the kill posed a problem when the quarry was such a formidable beast as the wooly mammoth, or the wooly rhinoceros. All that these Ice Age hunters had in the way of weapons were the spear thrower and the barbed harpoon. But they had developed the art of making traps and pitfalls. And they drove herds of mammoths over cliffs, and then stoned them to death.

They formed a small entity in a savage world dominated by huge animals of the hunt. Mutual cooperation among the small bands of Cro-Magnon families was essential if they were to survive. Internecine warfare had no place in Cro-Magnon society.

As far back as 20,000 years ago Cro-Magnon man had developed considerable skill as an artist. His sole interests seemed to have been in the hunt, and his cave paintings depicted the very animals he hunted. In the cave art of France and Spain the whole gamut of Ice Age beasts— from wooly mammoths to giant aurochs (the ancestors of modern cattle) —are represented. Paintings of aurochs, wild horses, bison and deer indicate climatic changes following the retreat of the glaciers when forests replaced the tundra.

You who are of European ancestry may owe your hunting instinct to Ice Age ancestors. The only remaining link between the modern deer hunter and his Stone Age ancestors is the campfire. Seated beside his night fire he finds that his world has shrunk to that of his savage forebears. Beyond the firelight's flickering flame lies the unknown. No longer do the saber-toothed cat, the mammoth and the wooly rhinoceros roam among the dark shadows. Instead, greater terror than all the snarling and trumpeting beasts of the Ice Age lie beyond the campfire's friendly light. High above a jet bomber patrols the night skies. Guided missiles with nuclear warheads stand poised on launching pads for instant retaliation should an unseen enemy strike.

In 20,000 years Homo sapiens has traveled full circle. The mammoth hunter turned warrior, has become the hunted one. If the holocaust of nuclear weapons should become unleashed, the ultimate survivors of the bombs and the fallout may have to go back to the Stone Age with only the friendly campfire to rally around as they try to piece together some semblance of civilization.
